

50-PAGE FOOTBALL IDEA PACK

Football ideas, AI workflows, and monetization paths you can actually test.

This pack is football-first and AI-content-first. Use it to build viral social posts, fan pages, newsletters, affiliate pages, digital products, or creator services without relying on fake promises.

Inside the pack

- 40 football social money playbooks.
- 5 reusable AI workflows.
- Hooks, first-post structures, prompts, and CTAs.
- A 7-day sprint to test signal.

How to choose

- Pick analysis, trends, products, or services.
- Choose one playbook.
- Publish one small version.
- Let real audience signal decide the next move.

What you can build

- Short-form explainers.
- Fan pages and newsletter angles.
- Affiliate link pages.
- Prompt packs, templates, calendars, and creator services.

Quality rules

- Ground posts in real football context.
- Fact-check names, dates, stats, and claims.
- Avoid copyrighted clips and fake promises.
- Keep every offer useful and optional.

40 playbooks, 5 workflows, a simple decision system, and a weekly testing rhythm.

PICK

Choose one lane that matches your energy and platform.

POST

Use the included prompt, hook, CTA, and first-post structure.

MEASURE

Track saves, replies, shares, profile clicks, and signup intent.

READ THIS FIRST

Do not try all 40 ideas.

Goldmine works best when you choose one lane, test it for one week, and only then decide whether to repeat or switch.

40 PLAYBOOKS 5 WORKFLOWS 1 WEEKLY TEST SYSTEM

Use the pack in this order

1. Read the lane map.
2. Choose one playbook.
3. Copy the prompt.
4. Publish the smallest useful version.
5. Track signal for 7 days.

Pick by energy

1. Analysis if you like thinking.
2. Trends if you like speed.
3. Products if you like selling.
4. Services if you like helping other creators.

Pick by platform

1. Reels and Shorts for fast testing.
2. X and Threads for opinions.
3. Newsletter for owned audience.
4. Landing page for product tests.

Score each idea quickly

1. Can I make 3 posts from this?
2. Would a stranger save this?
3. Can it lead to a useful checklist, template, link, or service?
4. Can I do this without copyrighted material?

The rule

You are not looking for the perfect idea. You are looking for a repeatable signal: saves, replies, shares, profile clicks, email signups, or people asking for the next version.

Do not buy tools first

Use AI chat, a notes app, and one platform first. Buy tools only after a format gets signal.

Do not automate first

Manual taste comes before automation. If the manual version is ignored, automation will only create ignored content faster.

Example first run

1. Pick Play 02 if you like explaining tactics.
2. Write 10 hooks around one match moment.
3. Publish one carousel or 35-second reel.
4. Track whether people save, reply, or ask for another breakdown.

WHERE THE IDEAS FIT

The Goldmine map.

Every idea in the pack sits inside one of four lanes. Pick the lane that fits your energy, not the one that sounds most impressive.

Analysis

Use this if you enjoy explaining matches, players, tactics, decisions, and stats in simple language.

1. Best formats: carousels, short explainers, newsletters.
2. Money path: guides, sponsorships, education products.

Trends

Use this if you move fast and can turn live football moments into useful posts before everyone else.

1. Best formats: polls, memes with context, daily watchlists.
2. Money path: affiliate pages, communities, newsletters.

Products

Use this if you like creating checklists, templates, prompts, calendars, posters, or digital downloads.

1. Best formats: product demos, examples, before/after posts.
2. Money path: $1 to $9 digital products and bundles.

Services

Use this if you want to help creators, fan pages, clubs, or small brands make better football content.

1. Best formats: audits, sample work, teardown posts.
2. Money path: retainers, setup fees, done-for-you content.

Simple route

Fan attention -> useful content format -> soft CTA -> checklist/template/link/newsletter/service. Keep the route useful before trying to make it profitable.

60-second choice test

1. Can I explain this idea to a friend quickly?
2. Can I make one example today?
3. Can I repeat it three times without copying myself?

Common mistake

Do not choose the lane with the biggest income fantasy. Choose the lane where you can make useful examples consistently.

40 PLAYBOOKS

Choose your starting lane.

1. Debate carousel engine
2. Short tactical explainer
3. Fan poll account
4. Watch party product list
5. Fantasy football watchlist
6. Football newsletter digest
7. Training micro-tip page
8. Football history shorts
9. Transfer rumor sanity check
10. Underdog story account
11. Football memes with context
12. AI match poster shop
13. Beginner tactics dictionary
14. Stats without spreadsheets
15. Match thread summaries
16. Football creator prompts
17. Club culture guide
18. What to watch today
19. Football job board content
20. AI commentary voiceover
21. Football fitness content
22. Kit design concept page
23. Referee decision explainer
24. Football language page
25. Stadium travel micro-guides
26. Women football spotlight
27. Youth academy tracker
28. Manager decision board
29. Football business explainer
30. AI fan quiz account
31. Weekly content calendar product
32. Football betting education only
33. Post-match quote breakdown
34. Football creator audit service
35. Niche fan community starter
36. AI reel script packs
37. Football explain-it-like-I-am-new
38. Creator affiliate hub
39. Football data template shop
40. AI thumbnail testing board

Fastest starting points

1. If you want content speed: start with polls, memes with context, or what to watch today.
2. If you want product ideas: start with prompts, templates, calendars, or data trackers.
3. If you want services: start with creator audits or reel script packs.

Best first rule

Pick the playbook that makes you want to post today. Execution beats picking the smartest-sounding idea and never publishing it.

If you feel stuck

Start with Play 02, Play 03, Play 16, or Play 34. They are easiest to test because they turn into a clear post, a clear prompt, or a clear service offer quickly.

FOOTBALL SOCIAL MONEY IDEA

Debate carousel engine

Core idea: Turn ongoing player debates into clean carousel posts. Best fit: Greatest-of-era comparisons, current form arguments, comeback stories.

AI-CONTENT FIRST INSTAGRAM CAROUSEL FIRST, THEN REMIX INTO REELS. 7-DAY VALIDATION

Why this can work

This works when the idea is tied to a moment fans already care about, but presented in a cleaner way than the noisy timeline. The goal is not to sound like an expert immediately. The goal is to make one useful point clearly enough that people save it, reply to it, or ask for the next breakdown.

What to avoid

Avoid pretending the result is guaranteed, copying copyrighted match clips, using unauthorized player likenesses as product endorsements, or posting generic AI text without fact-checking and taste.

AI workflow

Ask AI for 3 claims, 3 counterpoints, and 5 slide titles. Then rewrite the output in your own voice and verify names, dates, stats, and claims before publishing.

Money path

Newsletter signups, digital guides, creator tool affiliates. Keep the first CTA soft: "Want the checklist/template/version I used?"

Example hooks you can adapt

1. The useful angle today: Turn ongoing player debates into clean carousel posts.
2. Most fans are talking about greatest-of-era comparisons. Here is the cleaner, more useful breakdown.
3. Before the next match, turn one fan argument into one clear takeaway.
4. If this helps you, I can turn it into a checklist, template, or weekly series.

Example first post

Format: 5-slide carousel

1. Slide 1: bold claim about debate carousel engine.
2. Slide 2: one simple reason the audience already feels.
3. Slide 3: one fact, example, or match moment that supports it.
4. Slide 4: one counterpoint so the post feels honest.
5. Slide 5: question prompt that invites comments.

7-day validation plan

1. Day 1: research 5 live examples and write 10 hooks before designing anything.
2. Day 2: publish the first simple version on one platform only.
3. Day 3: reply to every useful comment and collect repeated questions.
4. Day 4: remix the strongest point into a second format.
5. Day 5: add one soft CTA to a checklist, link page, newsletter, or template.
6. Day 6: compare saves, shares, replies, and profile clicks.
7. Day 7: repeat only if there is a visible signal from strangers.

Copy prompt to start

Create a 5-slide carousel about "Debate carousel engine" for football fans. Audience: Greatest-of-era comparisons, current form arguments, comeback stories.. Include a sharp hook, a simple structure, one useful example, a soft CTA, and one realistic monetization path. Keep it factual, avoid copyrighted clips, and do not make income promises.

CTA examples

1. Want the checklist I used to make this?
2. Should I turn this into a full template?
3. Comment your club/player and I will make a version for that angle.

FOOTBALL SOCIAL MONEY IDEA

Short tactical explainer

Core idea: Explain a game pattern in plain English for casual fans. Best fit: Pressing traps, inverted fullbacks, late substitutions, set pieces.

AI-CONTENT FIRST SHORTS/REELS FIRST, THEN TURN COMMENTS INTO A SECOND POST. 7-DAY VALIDATION

Why this can work

This works when the idea is tied to a moment fans already care about, but presented in a cleaner way than the noisy timeline. The goal is not to sound like an expert immediately. The goal is to make one useful point clearly enough that people save it, reply to it, or ask for the next breakdown.

What to avoid

Avoid pretending the result is guaranteed, copying copyrighted match clips, using unauthorized player likenesses as product endorsements, or posting generic AI text without fact-checking and taste.

AI workflow

Draft a 40-second voiceover and generate a diagram checklist. Then rewrite the output in your own voice and verify names, dates, stats, and claims before publishing.

Money path

Sponsorships, coaching tools, sports education products. Keep the first CTA soft: "Want the checklist/template/version I used?"

Example hooks you can adapt

1. The useful angle today: Explain a game pattern in plain English for casual fans.
2. Most fans are talking about pressing traps. Here is the cleaner, more useful breakdown.
3. Before the next match, turn one fan argument into one clear takeaway.
4. If this helps you, I can turn it into a checklist, template, or weekly series.

Example first post

Format: 35-second short video

1. 0-3s: start with the strongest hook.
2. 4-15s: explain the situation in plain language.
3. 16-27s: show the useful takeaway or mistake people miss.
4. 28-35s: end with a save/comment CTA.

7-day validation plan

1. Day 1: research 5 live examples and write 10 hooks before designing anything.
2. Day 2: publish the first simple version on one platform only.
3. Day 3: reply to every useful comment and collect repeated questions.
4. Day 4: remix the strongest point into a second format.
5. Day 5: add one soft CTA to a checklist, link page, newsletter, or template.
6. Day 6: compare saves, shares, replies, and profile clicks.
7. Day 7: repeat only if there is a visible signal from strangers.

Copy prompt to start

Create a 35-second short video about "Short tactical explainer" for football fans. Audience: Pressing traps, inverted fullbacks, late substitutions, set pieces.. Include a sharp hook, a simple structure, one useful example, a soft CTA, and one realistic monetization path. Keep it factual, avoid copyrighted clips, and do not make income promises.

CTA examples

1. Want the checklist I used to make this?
2. Should I turn this into a full template?
3. Comment your club/player and I will make a version for that angle.

FOOTBALL SOCIAL MONEY IDEA

Fan poll account

Core idea: Run daily polls around simple football questions. Best fit: Who starts, who sits, best XI, score predictions, transfer choices.

AI-CONTENT FIRST X OR THREADS FIRST, THEN EXPAND THE STRONGEST REPLY INTO A CAROUSEL. 7-DAY VALIDATION

Why this can work

This works when the idea is tied to a moment fans already care about, but presented in a cleaner way than the noisy timeline. The goal is not to sound like an expert immediately. The goal is to make one useful point clearly enough that people save it, reply to it, or ask for the next breakdown.

What to avoid

Avoid pretending the result is guaranteed, copying copyrighted match clips, using unauthorized player likenesses as product endorsements, or posting generic AI text without fact-checking and taste.

AI workflow

Use AI to generate 7 poll prompts and follow-up captions. Then rewrite the output in your own voice and verify names, dates, stats, and claims before publishing.

Money path

Affiliate links, community subscriptions, prediction templates. Keep the first CTA soft: "Want the checklist/template/version I used?"

Example hooks you can adapt

1. The useful angle today: Run daily polls around simple football questions.
2. Most fans are talking about who starts. Here is the cleaner, more useful breakdown.
3. Before the next match, turn one fan argument into one clear takeaway.
4. If this helps you, I can turn it into a checklist, template, or weekly series.

Example first post

Format: X or Threads mini-thread

1. Post 1: name the fan poll account angle clearly.
2. Post 2: give one example and why it matters.
3. Post 3: add one practical takeaway for fans or creators.
4. Post 4: ask what people want broken down next.

7-day validation plan

1. Day 1: research 5 live examples and write 10 hooks before designing anything.
2. Day 2: publish the first simple version on one platform only.
3. Day 3: reply to every useful comment and collect repeated questions.
4. Day 4: remix the strongest point into a second format.
5. Day 5: add one soft CTA to a checklist, link page, newsletter, or template.
6. Day 6: compare saves, shares, replies, and profile clicks.
7. Day 7: repeat only if there is a visible signal from strangers.

Copy prompt to start

Create a X or Threads mini-thread about "Fan poll account" for football fans. Audience: Who starts, who sits, best XI, score predictions, transfer choices.. Include a sharp hook, a simple structure, one useful example, a soft CTA, and one realistic monetization path. Keep it factual, avoid copyrighted clips, and do not make income promises.

CTA examples

1. Want the checklist I used to make this?
2. Should I turn this into a full template?
3. Comment your club/player and I will make a version for that angle.

FOOTBALL SOCIAL MONEY IDEA

Watch party product list

Core idea: Turn match-day excitement into practical shopping lists. Best fit: Snacks, projectors, jerseys, streaming tools, room setup.

AI-CONTENT FIRST NEWSLETTER FIRST, THEN CLIP THE STRONGEST POINT INTO A SHORT POST. 7-DAY VALIDATION

Why this can work

This works when the idea is tied to a moment fans already care about, but presented in a cleaner way than the noisy timeline. The goal is not to sound like an expert immediately. The goal is to make one useful point clearly enough that people save it, reply to it, or ask for the next breakdown.

What to avoid

Avoid pretending the result is guaranteed, copying copyrighted match clips, using unauthorized player likenesses as product endorsements, or posting generic AI text without fact-checking and taste.

AI workflow

Generate a buyer checklist and short social captions. Then rewrite the output in your own voice and verify names, dates, stats, and claims before publishing.

Money path

Affiliate commissions and bundle pages. Keep the first CTA soft: "Want the checklist/template/version I used?"

Example hooks you can adapt

1. The useful angle today: Turn match-day excitement into practical shopping lists.
2. Most fans are talking about snacks. Here is the cleaner, more useful breakdown.
3. Before the next match, turn one fan argument into one clear takeaway.
4. If this helps you, I can turn it into a checklist, template, or weekly series.

Example first post

Format: Newsletter section

1. Subject line: use the simplest debate or question.
2. Opening: say why this matters now.
3. Middle: give three bullets with your judgment.
4. End: link to one useful resource or related post.

7-day validation plan

1. Day 1: research 5 live examples and write 10 hooks before designing anything.
2. Day 2: publish the first simple version on one platform only.
3. Day 3: reply to every useful comment and collect repeated questions.
4. Day 4: remix the strongest point into a second format.
5. Day 5: add one soft CTA to a checklist, link page, newsletter, or template.
6. Day 6: compare saves, shares, replies, and profile clicks.
7. Day 7: repeat only if there is a visible signal from strangers.

Copy prompt to start

Create a Newsletter section about "Watch party product list" for football fans. Audience: Snacks, projectors, jerseys, streaming tools, room setup.. Include a sharp hook, a simple structure, one useful example, a soft CTA, and one realistic monetization path. Keep it factual, avoid copyrighted clips, and do not make income promises.

CTA examples

1. Want the checklist I used to make this?
2. Should I turn this into a full template?
3. Comment your club/player and I will make a version for that angle.

FOOTBALL SOCIAL MONEY IDEA

Fantasy football watchlist

Core idea: Help fans choose players by fixture, form, and role. Best fit: Budget picks, risky captains, differential players, injury swaps.

AI-CONTENT FIRST INSTAGRAM CAROUSEL FIRST, THEN REMIX INTO REELS. 7-DAY VALIDATION

Why this can work

This works when the idea is tied to a moment fans already care about, but presented in a cleaner way than the noisy timeline. The goal is not to sound like an expert immediately. The goal is to make one useful point clearly enough that people save it, reply to it, or ask for the next breakdown.

What to avoid

Avoid pretending the result is guaranteed, copying copyrighted match clips, using unauthorized player likenesses as product endorsements, or posting generic AI text without fact-checking and taste.

AI workflow

Ask AI to format picks into safe, upside, avoid. Then rewrite the output in your own voice and verify names, dates, stats, and claims before publishing.

Money path

Paid spreadsheets, newsletters, communities. Keep the first CTA soft: "Want the checklist/template/version I used?"

Example hooks you can adapt

1. The useful angle today: Help fans choose players by fixture, form, and role.
2. Most fans are talking about budget picks. Here is the cleaner, more useful breakdown.
3. Before the next match, turn one fan argument into one clear takeaway.
4. If this helps you, I can turn it into a checklist, template, or weekly series.

Example first post

Format: 5-slide carousel

1. Slide 1: bold claim about fantasy football watchlist.
2. Slide 2: one simple reason the audience already feels.
3. Slide 3: one fact, example, or match moment that supports it.
4. Slide 4: one counterpoint so the post feels honest.
5. Slide 5: question prompt that invites comments.

7-day validation plan

1. Day 1: research 5 live examples and write 10 hooks before designing anything.
2. Day 2: publish the first simple version on one platform only.
3. Day 3: reply to every useful comment and collect repeated questions.
4. Day 4: remix the strongest point into a second format.
5. Day 5: add one soft CTA to a checklist, link page, newsletter, or template.
6. Day 6: compare saves, shares, replies, and profile clicks.
7. Day 7: repeat only if there is a visible signal from strangers.

Copy prompt to start

Create a 5-slide carousel about "Fantasy football watchlist" for football fans. Audience: Budget picks, risky captains, differential players, injury swaps.. Include a sharp hook, a simple structure, one useful example, a soft CTA, and one realistic monetization path. Keep it factual, avoid copyrighted clips, and do not make income promises.

CTA examples

1. Want the checklist I used to make this?
2. Should I turn this into a full template?
3. Comment your club/player and I will make a version for that angle.

FOOTBALL SOCIAL MONEY IDEA

Football newsletter digest

Core idea: Curate what happened and why it matters in 5 minutes. Best fit: Morning-after recaps, weekend previews, transfer summaries.

AI-CONTENT FIRST SHORTS/REELS FIRST, THEN TURN COMMENTS INTO A SECOND POST. 7-DAY VALIDATION

Why this can work

This works when the idea is tied to a moment fans already care about, but presented in a cleaner way than the noisy timeline. The goal is not to sound like an expert immediately. The goal is to make one useful point clearly enough that people save it, reply to it, or ask for the next breakdown.

What to avoid

Avoid pretending the result is guaranteed, copying copyrighted match clips, using unauthorized player likenesses as product endorsements, or posting generic AI text without fact-checking and taste.

AI workflow

Use AI to outline sections, then add your judgment. Then rewrite the output in your own voice and verify names, dates, stats, and claims before publishing.

Money path

Sponsorships, paid archive, tool affiliates. Keep the first CTA soft: "Want the checklist/template/version I used?"

Example hooks you can adapt

1. The useful angle today: Curate what happened and why it matters in 5 minutes.
2. Most fans are talking about morning-after recaps. Here is the cleaner, more useful breakdown.
3. Before the next match, turn one fan argument into one clear takeaway.
4. If this helps you, I can turn it into a checklist, template, or weekly series.

Example first post

Format: 35-second short video

1. 0-3s: start with the strongest hook.
2. 4-15s: explain the situation in plain language.
3. 16-27s: show the useful takeaway or mistake people miss.
4. 28-35s: end with a save/comment CTA.

7-day validation plan

1. Day 1: research 5 live examples and write 10 hooks before designing anything.
2. Day 2: publish the first simple version on one platform only.
3. Day 3: reply to every useful comment and collect repeated questions.
4. Day 4: remix the strongest point into a second format.
5. Day 5: add one soft CTA to a checklist, link page, newsletter, or template.
6. Day 6: compare saves, shares, replies, and profile clicks.
7. Day 7: repeat only if there is a visible signal from strangers.

Copy prompt to start

Create a 35-second short video about "Football newsletter digest" for football fans. Audience: Morning-after recaps, weekend previews, transfer summaries.. Include a sharp hook, a simple structure, one useful example, a soft CTA, and one realistic monetization path. Keep it factual, avoid copyrighted clips, and do not make income promises.

CTA examples

1. Want the checklist I used to make this?
2. Should I turn this into a full template?
3. Comment your club/player and I will make a version for that angle.

FOOTBALL SOCIAL MONEY IDEA

Training micro-tip page

Core idea: Convert pro moments into simple training advice. Best fit: First touch, scanning, weak foot, pressing, positioning.

AI-CONTENT FIRST X OR THREADS FIRST, THEN EXPAND THE STRONGEST REPLY INTO A CAROUSEL. 7-DAY VALIDATION

Why this can work

This works when the idea is tied to a moment fans already care about, but presented in a cleaner way than the noisy timeline. The goal is not to sound like an expert immediately. The goal is to make one useful point clearly enough that people save it, reply to it, or ask for the next breakdown.

What to avoid

Avoid pretending the result is guaranteed, copying copyrighted match clips, using unauthorized player likenesses as product endorsements, or posting generic AI text without fact-checking and taste.

AI workflow

Generate one drill from one match moment. Then rewrite the output in your own voice and verify names, dates, stats, and claims before publishing.

Money path

Training app affiliates, coaching leads, paid PDF drills. Keep the first CTA soft: "Want the checklist/template/version I used?"

Example hooks you can adapt

1. The useful angle today: Convert pro moments into simple training advice.
2. Most fans are talking about first touch. Here is the cleaner, more useful breakdown.
3. Before the next match, turn one fan argument into one clear takeaway.
4. If this helps you, I can turn it into a checklist, template, or weekly series.

Example first post

Format: X or Threads mini-thread

1. Post 1: name the training micro-tip page angle clearly.
2. Post 2: give one example and why it matters.
3. Post 3: add one practical takeaway for fans or creators.
4. Post 4: ask what people want broken down next.

7-day validation plan

1. Day 1: research 5 live examples and write 10 hooks before designing anything.
2. Day 2: publish the first simple version on one platform only.
3. Day 3: reply to every useful comment and collect repeated questions.
4. Day 4: remix the strongest point into a second format.
5. Day 5: add one soft CTA to a checklist, link page, newsletter, or template.
6. Day 6: compare saves, shares, replies, and profile clicks.
7. Day 7: repeat only if there is a visible signal from strangers.

Copy prompt to start

Create a X or Threads mini-thread about "Training micro-tip page" for football fans. Audience: First touch, scanning, weak foot, pressing, positioning.. Include a sharp hook, a simple structure, one useful example, a soft CTA, and one realistic monetization path. Keep it factual, avoid copyrighted clips, and do not make income promises.

CTA examples

1. Want the checklist I used to make this?
2. Should I turn this into a full template?
3. Comment your club/player and I will make a version for that angle.

FOOTBALL SOCIAL MONEY IDEA

Football history shorts

Core idea: Tell short stories about iconic moments and forgotten players. Best fit: World Cup moments, club eras, tactical revolutions.

AI-CONTENT FIRST NEWSLETTER FIRST, THEN CLIP THE STRONGEST POINT INTO A SHORT POST. 7-DAY VALIDATION

Why this can work

This works when the idea is tied to a moment fans already care about, but presented in a cleaner way than the noisy timeline. The goal is not to sound like an expert immediately. The goal is to make one useful point clearly enough that people save it, reply to it, or ask for the next breakdown.

What to avoid

Avoid pretending the result is guaranteed, copying copyrighted match clips, using unauthorized player likenesses as product endorsements, or posting generic AI text without fact-checking and taste.

AI workflow

Ask AI for story beats, then fact-check names and dates. Then rewrite the output in your own voice and verify names, dates, stats, and claims before publishing.

Money path

YouTube revenue, sponsorships, history guides. Keep the first CTA soft: "Want the checklist/template/version I used?"

Example hooks you can adapt

1. The useful angle today: Tell short stories about iconic moments and forgotten players.
2. Most fans are talking about world cup moments. Here is the cleaner, more useful breakdown.
3. Before the next match, turn one fan argument into one clear takeaway.
4. If this helps you, I can turn it into a checklist, template, or weekly series.

Example first post

Format: Newsletter section

1. Subject line: use the simplest debate or question.
2. Opening: say why this matters now.
3. Middle: give three bullets with your judgment.
4. End: link to one useful resource or related post.

7-day validation plan

1. Day 1: research 5 live examples and write 10 hooks before designing anything.
2. Day 2: publish the first simple version on one platform only.
3. Day 3: reply to every useful comment and collect repeated questions.
4. Day 4: remix the strongest point into a second format.
5. Day 5: add one soft CTA to a checklist, link page, newsletter, or template.
6. Day 6: compare saves, shares, replies, and profile clicks.
7. Day 7: repeat only if there is a visible signal from strangers.

Copy prompt to start

Create a Newsletter section about "Football history shorts" for football fans. Audience: World Cup moments, club eras, tactical revolutions.. Include a sharp hook, a simple structure, one useful example, a soft CTA, and one realistic monetization path. Keep it factual, avoid copyrighted clips, and do not make income promises.

CTA examples

1. Want the checklist I used to make this?
2. Should I turn this into a full template?
3. Comment your club/player and I will make a version for that angle.

FOOTBALL SOCIAL MONEY IDEA

Transfer rumor sanity check

Core idea: Explain rumors without pretending they are confirmed. Best fit: Likelihood, fit, money, squad need, source quality.

AI-CONTENT FIRST INSTAGRAM CAROUSEL FIRST, THEN REMIX INTO REELS. 7-DAY VALIDATION

Why this can work

This works when the idea is tied to a moment fans already care about, but presented in a cleaner way than the noisy timeline. The goal is not to sound like an expert immediately. The goal is to make one useful point clearly enough that people save it, reply to it, or ask for the next breakdown.

What to avoid

Avoid pretending the result is guaranteed, copying copyrighted match clips, using unauthorized player likenesses as product endorsements, or posting generic AI text without fact-checking and taste.

AI workflow

Use AI to create a rumor scorecard template. Then rewrite the output in your own voice and verify names, dates, stats, and claims before publishing.

Money path

Newsletter, membership, sports data tools. Keep the first CTA soft: "Want the checklist/template/version I used?"

Example hooks you can adapt

1. The useful angle today: Explain rumors without pretending they are confirmed.
2. Most fans are talking about likelihood. Here is the cleaner, more useful breakdown.
3. Before the next match, turn one fan argument into one clear takeaway.
4. If this helps you, I can turn it into a checklist, template, or weekly series.

Example first post

Format: 5-slide carousel

1. Slide 1: bold claim about transfer rumor sanity check.
2. Slide 2: one simple reason the audience already feels.
3. Slide 3: one fact, example, or match moment that supports it.
4. Slide 4: one counterpoint so the post feels honest.
5. Slide 5: question prompt that invites comments.

7-day validation plan

1. Day 1: research 5 live examples and write 10 hooks before designing anything.
2. Day 2: publish the first simple version on one platform only.
3. Day 3: reply to every useful comment and collect repeated questions.
4. Day 4: remix the strongest point into a second format.
5. Day 5: add one soft CTA to a checklist, link page, newsletter, or template.
6. Day 6: compare saves, shares, replies, and profile clicks.
7. Day 7: repeat only if there is a visible signal from strangers.

Copy prompt to start

Create a 5-slide carousel about "Transfer rumor sanity check" for football fans. Audience: Likelihood, fit, money, squad need, source quality.. Include a sharp hook, a simple structure, one useful example, a soft CTA, and one realistic monetization path. Keep it factual, avoid copyrighted clips, and do not make income promises.

CTA examples

1. Want the checklist I used to make this?
2. Should I turn this into a full template?
3. Comment your club/player and I will make a version for that angle.

FOOTBALL SOCIAL MONEY IDEA

Underdog story account

Core idea: Spot compelling lesser-known teams and players. Best fit: Small nations, academy graduates, comeback seasons.

AI-CONTENT FIRST SHORTS/REELS FIRST, THEN TURN COMMENTS INTO A SECOND POST. 7-DAY VALIDATION

Why this can work

This works when the idea is tied to a moment fans already care about, but presented in a cleaner way than the noisy timeline. The goal is not to sound like an expert immediately. The goal is to make one useful point clearly enough that people save it, reply to it, or ask for the next breakdown.

What to avoid

Avoid pretending the result is guaranteed, copying copyrighted match clips, using unauthorized player likenesses as product endorsements, or posting generic AI text without fact-checking and taste.

AI workflow

Generate a 5-part human story structure. Then rewrite the output in your own voice and verify names, dates, stats, and claims before publishing.

Money path

Brand partnerships and long-form YouTube. Keep the first CTA soft: "Want the checklist/template/version I used?"

Example hooks you can adapt

1. The useful angle today: Spot compelling lesser-known teams and players.
2. Most fans are talking about small nations. Here is the cleaner, more useful breakdown.
3. Before the next match, turn one fan argument into one clear takeaway.
4. If this helps you, I can turn it into a checklist, template, or weekly series.

Example first post

Format: 35-second short video

1. 0-3s: start with the strongest hook.
2. 4-15s: explain the situation in plain language.
3. 16-27s: show the useful takeaway or mistake people miss.
4. 28-35s: end with a save/comment CTA.

7-day validation plan

1. Day 1: research 5 live examples and write 10 hooks before designing anything.
2. Day 2: publish the first simple version on one platform only.
3. Day 3: reply to every useful comment and collect repeated questions.
4. Day 4: remix the strongest point into a second format.
5. Day 5: add one soft CTA to a checklist, link page, newsletter, or template.
6. Day 6: compare saves, shares, replies, and profile clicks.
7. Day 7: repeat only if there is a visible signal from strangers.

Copy prompt to start

Create a 35-second short video about "Underdog story account" for football fans. Audience: Small nations, academy graduates, comeback seasons.. Include a sharp hook, a simple structure, one useful example, a soft CTA, and one realistic monetization path. Keep it factual, avoid copyrighted clips, and do not make income promises.

CTA examples

1. Want the checklist I used to make this?
2. Should I turn this into a full template?
3. Comment your club/player and I will make a version for that angle.

FOOTBALL SOCIAL MONEY IDEA

Football memes with context

Core idea: Make memes that also teach or summarize a moment. Best fit: VAR drama, missed chances, manager reactions, fan pain.

AI-CONTENT FIRST X OR THREADS FIRST, THEN EXPAND THE STRONGEST REPLY INTO A CAROUSEL. 7-DAY VALIDATION

Why this can work

This works when the idea is tied to a moment fans already care about, but presented in a cleaner way than the noisy timeline. The goal is not to sound like an expert immediately. The goal is to make one useful point clearly enough that people save it, reply to it, or ask for the next breakdown.

What to avoid

Avoid pretending the result is guaranteed, copying copyrighted match clips, using unauthorized player likenesses as product endorsements, or posting generic AI text without fact-checking and taste.

AI workflow

Use AI to generate caption variants and timing windows. Then rewrite the output in your own voice and verify names, dates, stats, and claims before publishing.

Money path

Merch, paid community, sponsorships. Keep the first CTA soft: "Want the checklist/template/version I used?"

Example hooks you can adapt

1. The useful angle today: Make memes that also teach or summarize a moment.
2. Most fans are talking about var drama. Here is the cleaner, more useful breakdown.
3. Before the next match, turn one fan argument into one clear takeaway.
4. If this helps you, I can turn it into a checklist, template, or weekly series.

Example first post

Format: X or Threads mini-thread

1. Post 1: name the football memes with context angle clearly.
2. Post 2: give one example and why it matters.
3. Post 3: add one practical takeaway for fans or creators.
4. Post 4: ask what people want broken down next.

7-day validation plan

1. Day 1: research 5 live examples and write 10 hooks before designing anything.
2. Day 2: publish the first simple version on one platform only.
3. Day 3: reply to every useful comment and collect repeated questions.
4. Day 4: remix the strongest point into a second format.
5. Day 5: add one soft CTA to a checklist, link page, newsletter, or template.
6. Day 6: compare saves, shares, replies, and profile clicks.
7. Day 7: repeat only if there is a visible signal from strangers.

Copy prompt to start

Create a X or Threads mini-thread about "Football memes with context" for football fans. Audience: VAR drama, missed chances, manager reactions, fan pain.. Include a sharp hook, a simple structure, one useful example, a soft CTA, and one realistic monetization path. Keep it factual, avoid copyrighted clips, and do not make income promises.

CTA examples

1. Want the checklist I used to make this?
2. Should I turn this into a full template?
3. Comment your club/player and I will make a version for that angle.

FOOTBALL SOCIAL MONEY IDEA

AI match poster shop

Core idea: Design tasteful match posters and digital wallpapers. Best fit: Fixture posters, score recap cards, player-neutral visuals.

AI-CONTENT FIRST NEWSLETTER FIRST, THEN CLIP THE STRONGEST POINT INTO A SHORT POST. 7-DAY VALIDATION

Why this can work

This works when the idea is tied to a moment fans already care about, but presented in a cleaner way than the noisy timeline. The goal is not to sound like an expert immediately. The goal is to make one useful point clearly enough that people save it, reply to it, or ask for the next breakdown.

What to avoid

Avoid pretending the result is guaranteed, copying copyrighted match clips, using unauthorized player likenesses as product endorsements, or posting generic AI text without fact-checking and taste.

AI workflow

Use AI for layout prompts, not copyrighted player likenesses. Then rewrite the output in your own voice and verify names, dates, stats, and claims before publishing.

Money path

Digital downloads, print-on-demand, bundles. Keep the first CTA soft: "Want the checklist/template/version I used?"

Example hooks you can adapt

1. The useful angle today: Design tasteful match posters and digital wallpapers.
2. Most fans are talking about fixture posters. Here is the cleaner, more useful breakdown.
3. Before the next match, turn one fan argument into one clear takeaway.
4. If this helps you, I can turn it into a checklist, template, or weekly series.

Example first post

Format: Newsletter section

1. Subject line: use the simplest debate or question.
2. Opening: say why this matters now.
3. Middle: give three bullets with your judgment.
4. End: link to one useful resource or related post.

7-day validation plan

1. Day 1: research 5 live examples and write 10 hooks before designing anything.
2. Day 2: publish the first simple version on one platform only.
3. Day 3: reply to every useful comment and collect repeated questions.
4. Day 4: remix the strongest point into a second format.
5. Day 5: add one soft CTA to a checklist, link page, newsletter, or template.
6. Day 6: compare saves, shares, replies, and profile clicks.
7. Day 7: repeat only if there is a visible signal from strangers.

Copy prompt to start

Create a Newsletter section about "AI match poster shop" for football fans. Audience: Fixture posters, score recap cards, player-neutral visuals.. Include a sharp hook, a simple structure, one useful example, a soft CTA, and one realistic monetization path. Keep it factual, avoid copyrighted clips, and do not make income promises.

CTA examples

1. Want the checklist I used to make this?
2. Should I turn this into a full template?
3. Comment your club/player and I will make a version for that angle.

FOOTBALL SOCIAL MONEY IDEA

Beginner tactics dictionary

Core idea: Explain football terms for new fans. Best fit: Low block, overload, xG, half-space, rest defense.

AI-CONTENT FIRST INSTAGRAM CAROUSEL FIRST, THEN REMIX INTO REELS. 7-DAY VALIDATION

Why this can work

This works when the idea is tied to a moment fans already care about, but presented in a cleaner way than the noisy timeline. The goal is not to sound like an expert immediately. The goal is to make one useful point clearly enough that people save it, reply to it, or ask for the next breakdown.

What to avoid

Avoid pretending the result is guaranteed, copying copyrighted match clips, using unauthorized player likenesses as product endorsements, or posting generic AI text without fact-checking and taste.

AI workflow

Ask AI for plain examples and test them with real clips you can describe. Then rewrite the output in your own voice and verify names, dates, stats, and claims before publishing.

Money path

Mini-course, glossary PDF, sponsorships. Keep the first CTA soft: "Want the checklist/template/version I used?"

Example hooks you can adapt

1. The useful angle today: Explain football terms for new fans.
2. Most fans are talking about low block. Here is the cleaner, more useful breakdown.
3. Before the next match, turn one fan argument into one clear takeaway.
4. If this helps you, I can turn it into a checklist, template, or weekly series.

Example first post

Format: 5-slide carousel

1. Slide 1: bold claim about beginner tactics dictionary.
2. Slide 2: one simple reason the audience already feels.
3. Slide 3: one fact, example, or match moment that supports it.
4. Slide 4: one counterpoint so the post feels honest.
5. Slide 5: question prompt that invites comments.

7-day validation plan

1. Day 1: research 5 live examples and write 10 hooks before designing anything.
2. Day 2: publish the first simple version on one platform only.
3. Day 3: reply to every useful comment and collect repeated questions.
4. Day 4: remix the strongest point into a second format.
5. Day 5: add one soft CTA to a checklist, link page, newsletter, or template.
6. Day 6: compare saves, shares, replies, and profile clicks.
7. Day 7: repeat only if there is a visible signal from strangers.

Copy prompt to start

Create a 5-slide carousel about "Beginner tactics dictionary" for football fans. Audience: Low block, overload, xG, half-space, rest defense.. Include a sharp hook, a simple structure, one useful example, a soft CTA, and one realistic monetization path. Keep it factual, avoid copyrighted clips, and do not make income promises.

CTA examples

1. Want the checklist I used to make this?
2. Should I turn this into a full template?
3. Comment your club/player and I will make a version for that angle.

FOOTBALL SOCIAL MONEY IDEA

Stats without spreadsheets

Core idea: Turn one stat into a short human insight. Best fit: Shots, xG, pressures, carries, progressive passes.

AI-CONTENT FIRST SHORTS/REELS FIRST, THEN TURN COMMENTS INTO A SECOND POST. 7-DAY VALIDATION

Why this can work

This works when the idea is tied to a moment fans already care about, but presented in a cleaner way than the noisy timeline. The goal is not to sound like an expert immediately. The goal is to make one useful point clearly enough that people save it, reply to it, or ask for the next breakdown.

What to avoid

Avoid pretending the result is guaranteed, copying copyrighted match clips, using unauthorized player likenesses as product endorsements, or posting generic AI text without fact-checking and taste.

AI workflow

Ask AI to translate stats into a fan-friendly sentence. Then rewrite the output in your own voice and verify names, dates, stats, and claims before publishing.

Money path

Data tool affiliates, newsletters. Keep the first CTA soft: "Want the checklist/template/version I used?"

Example hooks you can adapt

1. The useful angle today: Turn one stat into a short human insight.
2. Most fans are talking about shots. Here is the cleaner, more useful breakdown.
3. Before the next match, turn one fan argument into one clear takeaway.
4. If this helps you, I can turn it into a checklist, template, or weekly series.

Example first post

Format: 35-second short video

1. 0-3s: start with the strongest hook.
2. 4-15s: explain the situation in plain language.
3. 16-27s: show the useful takeaway or mistake people miss.
4. 28-35s: end with a save/comment CTA.

7-day validation plan

1. Day 1: research 5 live examples and write 10 hooks before designing anything.
2. Day 2: publish the first simple version on one platform only.
3. Day 3: reply to every useful comment and collect repeated questions.
4. Day 4: remix the strongest point into a second format.
5. Day 5: add one soft CTA to a checklist, link page, newsletter, or template.
6. Day 6: compare saves, shares, replies, and profile clicks.
7. Day 7: repeat only if there is a visible signal from strangers.

Copy prompt to start

Create a 35-second short video about "Stats without spreadsheets" for football fans. Audience: Shots, xG, pressures, carries, progressive passes.. Include a sharp hook, a simple structure, one useful example, a soft CTA, and one realistic monetization path. Keep it factual, avoid copyrighted clips, and do not make income promises.

CTA examples

1. Want the checklist I used to make this?
2. Should I turn this into a full template?
3. Comment your club/player and I will make a version for that angle.

FOOTBALL SOCIAL MONEY IDEA

Match thread summaries

Core idea: Summarize live fan conversation after a match. Best fit: Top complaints, praise, tactical questions, meme angles.

AI-CONTENT FIRST X OR THREADS FIRST, THEN EXPAND THE STRONGEST REPLY INTO A CAROUSEL. 7-DAY VALIDATION

Why this can work

This works when the idea is tied to a moment fans already care about, but presented in a cleaner way than the noisy timeline. The goal is not to sound like an expert immediately. The goal is to make one useful point clearly enough that people save it, reply to it, or ask for the next breakdown.

What to avoid

Avoid pretending the result is guaranteed, copying copyrighted match clips, using unauthorized player likenesses as product endorsements, or posting generic AI text without fact-checking and taste.

AI workflow

Use AI to cluster comments, then rewrite responsibly. Then rewrite the output in your own voice and verify names, dates, stats, and claims before publishing.

Money path

Community growth, sponsorships. Keep the first CTA soft: "Want the checklist/template/version I used?"

Example hooks you can adapt

1. The useful angle today: Summarize live fan conversation after a match.
2. Most fans are talking about top complaints. Here is the cleaner, more useful breakdown.
3. Before the next match, turn one fan argument into one clear takeaway.
4. If this helps you, I can turn it into a checklist, template, or weekly series.

Example first post

Format: X or Threads mini-thread

1. Post 1: name the match thread summaries angle clearly.
2. Post 2: give one example and why it matters.
3. Post 3: add one practical takeaway for fans or creators.
4. Post 4: ask what people want broken down next.

7-day validation plan

1. Day 1: research 5 live examples and write 10 hooks before designing anything.
2. Day 2: publish the first simple version on one platform only.
3. Day 3: reply to every useful comment and collect repeated questions.
4. Day 4: remix the strongest point into a second format.
5. Day 5: add one soft CTA to a checklist, link page, newsletter, or template.
6. Day 6: compare saves, shares, replies, and profile clicks.
7. Day 7: repeat only if there is a visible signal from strangers.

Copy prompt to start

Create a X or Threads mini-thread about "Match thread summaries" for football fans. Audience: Top complaints, praise, tactical questions, meme angles.. Include a sharp hook, a simple structure, one useful example, a soft CTA, and one realistic monetization path. Keep it factual, avoid copyrighted clips, and do not make income promises.

CTA examples

1. Want the checklist I used to make this?
2. Should I turn this into a full template?
3. Comment your club/player and I will make a version for that angle.

FOOTBALL SOCIAL MONEY IDEA

Football creator prompts

Core idea: Sell prompts that help other creators make football content. Best fit: Hook prompts, carousel outlines, reel scripts, newsletter sections.

AI-CONTENT FIRST NEWSLETTER FIRST, THEN CLIP THE STRONGEST POINT INTO A SHORT POST. 7-DAY VALIDATION

Why this can work

This works when the idea is tied to a moment fans already care about, but presented in a cleaner way than the noisy timeline. The goal is not to sound like an expert immediately. The goal is to make one useful point clearly enough that people save it, reply to it, or ask for the next breakdown.

What to avoid

Avoid pretending the result is guaranteed, copying copyrighted match clips, using unauthorized player likenesses as product endorsements, or posting generic AI text without fact-checking and taste.

AI workflow

Package 25 prompts by use case and show examples. Then rewrite the output in your own voice and verify names, dates, stats, and claims before publishing.

Money path

Prompt pack sales, Gumroad-style products. Keep the first CTA soft: "Want the checklist/template/version I used?"

Example hooks you can adapt

1. The useful angle today: Sell prompts that help other creators make football content.
2. Most fans are talking about hook prompts. Here is the cleaner, more useful breakdown.
3. Before the next match, turn one fan argument into one clear takeaway.
4. If this helps you, I can turn it into a checklist, template, or weekly series.

Example first post

Format: Newsletter section

1. Subject line: use the simplest debate or question.
2. Opening: say why this matters now.
3. Middle: give three bullets with your judgment.
4. End: link to one useful resource or related post.

7-day validation plan

1. Day 1: research 5 live examples and write 10 hooks before designing anything.
2. Day 2: publish the first simple version on one platform only.
3. Day 3: reply to every useful comment and collect repeated questions.
4. Day 4: remix the strongest point into a second format.
5. Day 5: add one soft CTA to a checklist, link page, newsletter, or template.
6. Day 6: compare saves, shares, replies, and profile clicks.
7. Day 7: repeat only if there is a visible signal from strangers.

Copy prompt to start

Create a Newsletter section about "Football creator prompts" for football fans. Audience: Hook prompts, carousel outlines, reel scripts, newsletter sections.. Include a sharp hook, a simple structure, one useful example, a soft CTA, and one realistic monetization path. Keep it factual, avoid copyrighted clips, and do not make income promises.

CTA examples

1. Want the checklist I used to make this?
2. Should I turn this into a full template?
3. Comment your club/player and I will make a version for that angle.

FOOTBALL SOCIAL MONEY IDEA

Club culture guide

Core idea: Help global fans understand a club's identity. Best fit: Rivalries, chants, legends, style, fan expectations.

AI-CONTENT FIRST INSTAGRAM CAROUSEL FIRST, THEN REMIX INTO REELS. 7-DAY VALIDATION

Why this can work

This works when the idea is tied to a moment fans already care about, but presented in a cleaner way than the noisy timeline. The goal is not to sound like an expert immediately. The goal is to make one useful point clearly enough that people save it, reply to it, or ask for the next breakdown.

What to avoid

Avoid pretending the result is guaranteed, copying copyrighted match clips, using unauthorized player likenesses as product endorsements, or posting generic AI text without fact-checking and taste.

AI workflow

Use AI for structure, then verify with reliable sources. Then rewrite the output in your own voice and verify names, dates, stats, and claims before publishing.

Money path

Guides, newsletter, affiliate fan products. Keep the first CTA soft: "Want the checklist/template/version I used?"

Example hooks you can adapt

1. The useful angle today: Help global fans understand a club's identity.
2. Most fans are talking about rivalries. Here is the cleaner, more useful breakdown.
3. Before the next match, turn one fan argument into one clear takeaway.
4. If this helps you, I can turn it into a checklist, template, or weekly series.

Example first post

Format: 5-slide carousel

1. Slide 1: bold claim about club culture guide.
2. Slide 2: one simple reason the audience already feels.
3. Slide 3: one fact, example, or match moment that supports it.
4. Slide 4: one counterpoint so the post feels honest.
5. Slide 5: question prompt that invites comments.

7-day validation plan

1. Day 1: research 5 live examples and write 10 hooks before designing anything.
2. Day 2: publish the first simple version on one platform only.
3. Day 3: reply to every useful comment and collect repeated questions.
4. Day 4: remix the strongest point into a second format.
5. Day 5: add one soft CTA to a checklist, link page, newsletter, or template.
6. Day 6: compare saves, shares, replies, and profile clicks.
7. Day 7: repeat only if there is a visible signal from strangers.

Copy prompt to start

Create a 5-slide carousel about "Club culture guide" for football fans. Audience: Rivalries, chants, legends, style, fan expectations.. Include a sharp hook, a simple structure, one useful example, a soft CTA, and one realistic monetization path. Keep it factual, avoid copyrighted clips, and do not make income promises.

CTA examples

1. Want the checklist I used to make this?
2. Should I turn this into a full template?
3. Comment your club/player and I will make a version for that angle.

FOOTBALL SOCIAL MONEY IDEA

What to watch today

Core idea: Daily post telling busy fans which games matter. Best fit: Best fixture, hidden fixture, player to watch, story angle.

AI-CONTENT FIRST SHORTS/REELS FIRST, THEN TURN COMMENTS INTO A SECOND POST. 7-DAY VALIDATION

Why this can work

This works when the idea is tied to a moment fans already care about, but presented in a cleaner way than the noisy timeline. The goal is not to sound like an expert immediately. The goal is to make one useful point clearly enough that people save it, reply to it, or ask for the next breakdown.

What to avoid

Avoid pretending the result is guaranteed, copying copyrighted match clips, using unauthorized player likenesses as product endorsements, or posting generic AI text without fact-checking and taste.

AI workflow

Generate a daily card template and fill it manually. Then rewrite the output in your own voice and verify names, dates, stats, and claims before publishing.

Money path

Newsletter and sports app affiliates. Keep the first CTA soft: "Want the checklist/template/version I used?"

Example hooks you can adapt

1. The useful angle today: Daily post telling busy fans which games matter.
2. Most fans are talking about best fixture. Here is the cleaner, more useful breakdown.
3. Before the next match, turn one fan argument into one clear takeaway.
4. If this helps you, I can turn it into a checklist, template, or weekly series.

Example first post

Format: 35-second short video

1. 0-3s: start with the strongest hook.
2. 4-15s: explain the situation in plain language.
3. 16-27s: show the useful takeaway or mistake people miss.
4. 28-35s: end with a save/comment CTA.

7-day validation plan

1. Day 1: research 5 live examples and write 10 hooks before designing anything.
2. Day 2: publish the first simple version on one platform only.
3. Day 3: reply to every useful comment and collect repeated questions.
4. Day 4: remix the strongest point into a second format.
5. Day 5: add one soft CTA to a checklist, link page, newsletter, or template.
6. Day 6: compare saves, shares, replies, and profile clicks.
7. Day 7: repeat only if there is a visible signal from strangers.

Copy prompt to start

Create a 35-second short video about "What to watch today" for football fans. Audience: Best fixture, hidden fixture, player to watch, story angle.. Include a sharp hook, a simple structure, one useful example, a soft CTA, and one realistic monetization path. Keep it factual, avoid copyrighted clips, and do not make income promises.

CTA examples

1. Want the checklist I used to make this?
2. Should I turn this into a full template?
3. Comment your club/player and I will make a version for that angle.

FOOTBALL SOCIAL MONEY IDEA

Football job board content

Core idea: Create content around football careers and creator gigs. Best fit: Analyst roles, video editor gigs, sports marketing openings.

AI-CONTENT FIRST X OR THREADS FIRST, THEN EXPAND THE STRONGEST REPLY INTO A CAROUSEL. 7-DAY VALIDATION

Why this can work

This works when the idea is tied to a moment fans already care about, but presented in a cleaner way than the noisy timeline. The goal is not to sound like an expert immediately. The goal is to make one useful point clearly enough that people save it, reply to it, or ask for the next breakdown.

What to avoid

Avoid pretending the result is guaranteed, copying copyrighted match clips, using unauthorized player likenesses as product endorsements, or posting generic AI text without fact-checking and taste.

AI workflow

Use AI to summarize opportunities and skills needed. Then rewrite the output in your own voice and verify names, dates, stats, and claims before publishing.

Money path

Job board sponsorships, resume templates. Keep the first CTA soft: "Want the checklist/template/version I used?"

Example hooks you can adapt

1. The useful angle today: Create content around football careers and creator gigs.
2. Most fans are talking about analyst roles. Here is the cleaner, more useful breakdown.
3. Before the next match, turn one fan argument into one clear takeaway.
4. If this helps you, I can turn it into a checklist, template, or weekly series.

Example first post

Format: X or Threads mini-thread

1. Post 1: name the football job board content angle clearly.
2. Post 2: give one example and why it matters.
3. Post 3: add one practical takeaway for fans or creators.
4. Post 4: ask what people want broken down next.

7-day validation plan

1. Day 1: research 5 live examples and write 10 hooks before designing anything.
2. Day 2: publish the first simple version on one platform only.
3. Day 3: reply to every useful comment and collect repeated questions.
4. Day 4: remix the strongest point into a second format.
5. Day 5: add one soft CTA to a checklist, link page, newsletter, or template.
6. Day 6: compare saves, shares, replies, and profile clicks.
7. Day 7: repeat only if there is a visible signal from strangers.

Copy prompt to start

Create a X or Threads mini-thread about "Football job board content" for football fans. Audience: Analyst roles, video editor gigs, sports marketing openings.. Include a sharp hook, a simple structure, one useful example, a soft CTA, and one realistic monetization path. Keep it factual, avoid copyrighted clips, and do not make income promises.

CTA examples

1. Want the checklist I used to make this?
2. Should I turn this into a full template?
3. Comment your club/player and I will make a version for that angle.

FOOTBALL SOCIAL MONEY IDEA

AI commentary voiceover

Core idea: Create original commentary-style explainers without using match audio. Best fit: Tactical moments, historic stories, fan reactions.

AI-CONTENT FIRST NEWSLETTER FIRST, THEN CLIP THE STRONGEST POINT INTO A SHORT POST. 7-DAY VALIDATION

Why this can work

This works when the idea is tied to a moment fans already care about, but presented in a cleaner way than the noisy timeline. The goal is not to sound like an expert immediately. The goal is to make one useful point clearly enough that people save it, reply to it, or ask for the next breakdown.

What to avoid

Avoid pretending the result is guaranteed, copying copyrighted match clips, using unauthorized player likenesses as product endorsements, or posting generic AI text without fact-checking and taste.

AI workflow

Generate a script, record voiceover, use diagrams or licensed assets. Then rewrite the output in your own voice and verify names, dates, stats, and claims before publishing.

Money path

YouTube, sponsorships, voiceover services. Keep the first CTA soft: "Want the checklist/template/version I used?"

Example hooks you can adapt

1. The useful angle today: Create original commentary-style explainers without using match audio.
2. Most fans are talking about tactical moments. Here is the cleaner, more useful breakdown.
3. Before the next match, turn one fan argument into one clear takeaway.
4. If this helps you, I can turn it into a checklist, template, or weekly series.

Example first post

Format: Newsletter section

1. Subject line: use the simplest debate or question.
2. Opening: say why this matters now.
3. Middle: give three bullets with your judgment.
4. End: link to one useful resource or related post.

7-day validation plan

1. Day 1: research 5 live examples and write 10 hooks before designing anything.
2. Day 2: publish the first simple version on one platform only.
3. Day 3: reply to every useful comment and collect repeated questions.
4. Day 4: remix the strongest point into a second format.
5. Day 5: add one soft CTA to a checklist, link page, newsletter, or template.
6. Day 6: compare saves, shares, replies, and profile clicks.
7. Day 7: repeat only if there is a visible signal from strangers.

Copy prompt to start

Create a Newsletter section about "AI commentary voiceover" for football fans. Audience: Tactical moments, historic stories, fan reactions.. Include a sharp hook, a simple structure, one useful example, a soft CTA, and one realistic monetization path. Keep it factual, avoid copyrighted clips, and do not make income promises.

CTA examples

1. Want the checklist I used to make this?
2. Should I turn this into a full template?
3. Comment your club/player and I will make a version for that angle.

FOOTBALL SOCIAL MONEY IDEA

Football fitness content

Core idea: Bridge fan interest into athletic training. Best fit: Speed, stamina, mobility, recovery, warmups.

AI-CONTENT FIRST INSTAGRAM CAROUSEL FIRST, THEN REMIX INTO REELS. 7-DAY VALIDATION

Why this can work

This works when the idea is tied to a moment fans already care about, but presented in a cleaner way than the noisy timeline. The goal is not to sound like an expert immediately. The goal is to make one useful point clearly enough that people save it, reply to it, or ask for the next breakdown.

What to avoid

Avoid pretending the result is guaranteed, copying copyrighted match clips, using unauthorized player likenesses as product endorsements, or posting generic AI text without fact-checking and taste.

AI workflow

Generate a 7-day beginner routine and safety notes. Then rewrite the output in your own voice and verify names, dates, stats, and claims before publishing.

Money path

Fitness app affiliates and coaching leads. Keep the first CTA soft: "Want the checklist/template/version I used?"

Example hooks you can adapt

1. The useful angle today: Bridge fan interest into athletic training.
2. Most fans are talking about speed. Here is the cleaner, more useful breakdown.
3. Before the next match, turn one fan argument into one clear takeaway.
4. If this helps you, I can turn it into a checklist, template, or weekly series.

Example first post

Format: 5-slide carousel

1. Slide 1: bold claim about football fitness content.
2. Slide 2: one simple reason the audience already feels.
3. Slide 3: one fact, example, or match moment that supports it.
4. Slide 4: one counterpoint so the post feels honest.
5. Slide 5: question prompt that invites comments.

7-day validation plan

1. Day 1: research 5 live examples and write 10 hooks before designing anything.
2. Day 2: publish the first simple version on one platform only.
3. Day 3: reply to every useful comment and collect repeated questions.
4. Day 4: remix the strongest point into a second format.
5. Day 5: add one soft CTA to a checklist, link page, newsletter, or template.
6. Day 6: compare saves, shares, replies, and profile clicks.
7. Day 7: repeat only if there is a visible signal from strangers.

Copy prompt to start

Create a 5-slide carousel about "Football fitness content" for football fans. Audience: Speed, stamina, mobility, recovery, warmups.. Include a sharp hook, a simple structure, one useful example, a soft CTA, and one realistic monetization path. Keep it factual, avoid copyrighted clips, and do not make income promises.

CTA examples

1. Want the checklist I used to make this?
2. Should I turn this into a full template?
3. Comment your club/player and I will make a version for that angle.

FOOTBALL SOCIAL MONEY IDEA

Kit design concept page

Core idea: Make original concept kits without copying official designs. Best fit: Retro concepts, color palettes, fictional tournament kits.

AI-CONTENT FIRST SHORTS/REELS FIRST, THEN TURN COMMENTS INTO A SECOND POST. 7-DAY VALIDATION

Why this can work

This works when the idea is tied to a moment fans already care about, but presented in a cleaner way than the noisy timeline. The goal is not to sound like an expert immediately. The goal is to make one useful point clearly enough that people save it, reply to it, or ask for the next breakdown.

What to avoid

Avoid pretending the result is guaranteed, copying copyrighted match clips, using unauthorized player likenesses as product endorsements, or posting generic AI text without fact-checking and taste.

AI workflow

Use AI for palette prompts and design notes. Then rewrite the output in your own voice and verify names, dates, stats, and claims before publishing.

Money path

Print-on-demand and design commissions. Keep the first CTA soft: "Want the checklist/template/version I used?"

Example hooks you can adapt

1. The useful angle today: Make original concept kits without copying official designs.
2. Most fans are talking about retro concepts. Here is the cleaner, more useful breakdown.
3. Before the next match, turn one fan argument into one clear takeaway.
4. If this helps you, I can turn it into a checklist, template, or weekly series.

Example first post

Format: 35-second short video

1. 0-3s: start with the strongest hook.
2. 4-15s: explain the situation in plain language.
3. 16-27s: show the useful takeaway or mistake people miss.
4. 28-35s: end with a save/comment CTA.

7-day validation plan

1. Day 1: research 5 live examples and write 10 hooks before designing anything.
2. Day 2: publish the first simple version on one platform only.
3. Day 3: reply to every useful comment and collect repeated questions.
4. Day 4: remix the strongest point into a second format.
5. Day 5: add one soft CTA to a checklist, link page, newsletter, or template.
6. Day 6: compare saves, shares, replies, and profile clicks.
7. Day 7: repeat only if there is a visible signal from strangers.

Copy prompt to start

Create a 35-second short video about "Kit design concept page" for football fans. Audience: Retro concepts, color palettes, fictional tournament kits.. Include a sharp hook, a simple structure, one useful example, a soft CTA, and one realistic monetization path. Keep it factual, avoid copyrighted clips, and do not make income promises.

CTA examples

1. Want the checklist I used to make this?
2. Should I turn this into a full template?
3. Comment your club/player and I will make a version for that angle.

FOOTBALL SOCIAL MONEY IDEA

Referee decision explainer

Core idea: Explain controversial decisions calmly. Best fit: VAR, offside, handball, red cards, penalties.

AI-CONTENT FIRST X OR THREADS FIRST, THEN EXPAND THE STRONGEST REPLY INTO A CAROUSEL. 7-DAY VALIDATION

Why this can work

This works when the idea is tied to a moment fans already care about, but presented in a cleaner way than the noisy timeline. The goal is not to sound like an expert immediately. The goal is to make one useful point clearly enough that people save it, reply to it, or ask for the next breakdown.

What to avoid

Avoid pretending the result is guaranteed, copying copyrighted match clips, using unauthorized player likenesses as product endorsements, or posting generic AI text without fact-checking and taste.

AI workflow

Use AI to create a neutral breakdown template. Then rewrite the output in your own voice and verify names, dates, stats, and claims before publishing.

Money path

Trust-building account, sponsorships. Keep the first CTA soft: "Want the checklist/template/version I used?"

Example hooks you can adapt

1. The useful angle today: Explain controversial decisions calmly.
2. Most fans are talking about var. Here is the cleaner, more useful breakdown.
3. Before the next match, turn one fan argument into one clear takeaway.
4. If this helps you, I can turn it into a checklist, template, or weekly series.

Example first post

Format: X or Threads mini-thread

1. Post 1: name the referee decision explainer angle clearly.
2. Post 2: give one example and why it matters.
3. Post 3: add one practical takeaway for fans or creators.
4. Post 4: ask what people want broken down next.

7-day validation plan

1. Day 1: research 5 live examples and write 10 hooks before designing anything.
2. Day 2: publish the first simple version on one platform only.
3. Day 3: reply to every useful comment and collect repeated questions.
4. Day 4: remix the strongest point into a second format.
5. Day 5: add one soft CTA to a checklist, link page, newsletter, or template.
6. Day 6: compare saves, shares, replies, and profile clicks.
7. Day 7: repeat only if there is a visible signal from strangers.

Copy prompt to start

Create a X or Threads mini-thread about "Referee decision explainer" for football fans. Audience: VAR, offside, handball, red cards, penalties.. Include a sharp hook, a simple structure, one useful example, a soft CTA, and one realistic monetization path. Keep it factual, avoid copyrighted clips, and do not make income promises.

CTA examples

1. Want the checklist I used to make this?
2. Should I turn this into a full template?
3. Comment your club/player and I will make a version for that angle.

FOOTBALL SOCIAL MONEY IDEA

Football language page

Core idea: Teach football vocabulary in multiple languages. Best fit: Spanish, Portuguese, French, Arabic football phrases.

AI-CONTENT FIRST NEWSLETTER FIRST, THEN CLIP THE STRONGEST POINT INTO A SHORT POST. 7-DAY VALIDATION

Why this can work

This works when the idea is tied to a moment fans already care about, but presented in a cleaner way than the noisy timeline. The goal is not to sound like an expert immediately. The goal is to make one useful point clearly enough that people save it, reply to it, or ask for the next breakdown.

What to avoid

Avoid pretending the result is guaranteed, copying copyrighted match clips, using unauthorized player likenesses as product endorsements, or posting generic AI text without fact-checking and taste.

AI workflow

Generate phrase cards and pronunciation notes. Then rewrite the output in your own voice and verify names, dates, stats, and claims before publishing.

Money path

Language app affiliates, digital phrasebooks. Keep the first CTA soft: "Want the checklist/template/version I used?"

Example hooks you can adapt

1. The useful angle today: Teach football vocabulary in multiple languages.
2. Most fans are talking about spanish. Here is the cleaner, more useful breakdown.
3. Before the next match, turn one fan argument into one clear takeaway.
4. If this helps you, I can turn it into a checklist, template, or weekly series.

Example first post

Format: Newsletter section

1. Subject line: use the simplest debate or question.
2. Opening: say why this matters now.
3. Middle: give three bullets with your judgment.
4. End: link to one useful resource or related post.

7-day validation plan

1. Day 1: research 5 live examples and write 10 hooks before designing anything.
2. Day 2: publish the first simple version on one platform only.
3. Day 3: reply to every useful comment and collect repeated questions.
4. Day 4: remix the strongest point into a second format.
5. Day 5: add one soft CTA to a checklist, link page, newsletter, or template.
6. Day 6: compare saves, shares, replies, and profile clicks.
7. Day 7: repeat only if there is a visible signal from strangers.

Copy prompt to start

Create a Newsletter section about "Football language page" for football fans. Audience: Spanish, Portuguese, French, Arabic football phrases.. Include a sharp hook, a simple structure, one useful example, a soft CTA, and one realistic monetization path. Keep it factual, avoid copyrighted clips, and do not make income promises.

CTA examples

1. Want the checklist I used to make this?
2. Should I turn this into a full template?
3. Comment your club/player and I will make a version for that angle.

FOOTBALL SOCIAL MONEY IDEA

Stadium travel micro-guides

Core idea: Create short guides for fans visiting stadiums. Best fit: Transport, food, seating, chants, local etiquette.

AI-CONTENT FIRST INSTAGRAM CAROUSEL FIRST, THEN REMIX INTO REELS. 7-DAY VALIDATION

Why this can work

This works when the idea is tied to a moment fans already care about, but presented in a cleaner way than the noisy timeline. The goal is not to sound like an expert immediately. The goal is to make one useful point clearly enough that people save it, reply to it, or ask for the next breakdown.

What to avoid

Avoid pretending the result is guaranteed, copying copyrighted match clips, using unauthorized player likenesses as product endorsements, or posting generic AI text without fact-checking and taste.

AI workflow

Ask AI for structure, then verify with maps and official pages. Then rewrite the output in your own voice and verify names, dates, stats, and claims before publishing.

Money path

Travel affiliates and city guide sales. Keep the first CTA soft: "Want the checklist/template/version I used?"

Example hooks you can adapt

1. The useful angle today: Create short guides for fans visiting stadiums.
2. Most fans are talking about transport. Here is the cleaner, more useful breakdown.
3. Before the next match, turn one fan argument into one clear takeaway.
4. If this helps you, I can turn it into a checklist, template, or weekly series.

Example first post

Format: 5-slide carousel

1. Slide 1: bold claim about stadium travel micro-guides.
2. Slide 2: one simple reason the audience already feels.
3. Slide 3: one fact, example, or match moment that supports it.
4. Slide 4: one counterpoint so the post feels honest.
5. Slide 5: question prompt that invites comments.

7-day validation plan

1. Day 1: research 5 live examples and write 10 hooks before designing anything.
2. Day 2: publish the first simple version on one platform only.
3. Day 3: reply to every useful comment and collect repeated questions.
4. Day 4: remix the strongest point into a second format.
5. Day 5: add one soft CTA to a checklist, link page, newsletter, or template.
6. Day 6: compare saves, shares, replies, and profile clicks.
7. Day 7: repeat only if there is a visible signal from strangers.

Copy prompt to start

Create a 5-slide carousel about "Stadium travel micro-guides" for football fans. Audience: Transport, food, seating, chants, local etiquette.. Include a sharp hook, a simple structure, one useful example, a soft CTA, and one realistic monetization path. Keep it factual, avoid copyrighted clips, and do not make income promises.

CTA examples

1. Want the checklist I used to make this?
2. Should I turn this into a full template?
3. Comment your club/player and I will make a version for that angle.

FOOTBALL SOCIAL MONEY IDEA

Women football spotlight

Core idea: Cover rising teams, players, and stories with respect. Best fit: Tournament previews, player profiles, club growth.

AI-CONTENT FIRST SHORTS/REELS FIRST, THEN TURN COMMENTS INTO A SECOND POST. 7-DAY VALIDATION

Why this can work

This works when the idea is tied to a moment fans already care about, but presented in a cleaner way than the noisy timeline. The goal is not to sound like an expert immediately. The goal is to make one useful point clearly enough that people save it, reply to it, or ask for the next breakdown.

What to avoid

Avoid pretending the result is guaranteed, copying copyrighted match clips, using unauthorized player likenesses as product endorsements, or posting generic AI text without fact-checking and taste.

AI workflow

Use AI to outline profiles, then fact-check thoroughly. Then rewrite the output in your own voice and verify names, dates, stats, and claims before publishing.

Money path

Sponsorships, newsletters, community. Keep the first CTA soft: "Want the checklist/template/version I used?"

Example hooks you can adapt

1. The useful angle today: Cover rising teams, players, and stories with respect.
2. Most fans are talking about tournament previews. Here is the cleaner, more useful breakdown.
3. Before the next match, turn one fan argument into one clear takeaway.
4. If this helps you, I can turn it into a checklist, template, or weekly series.

Example first post

Format: 35-second short video

1. 0-3s: start with the strongest hook.
2. 4-15s: explain the situation in plain language.
3. 16-27s: show the useful takeaway or mistake people miss.
4. 28-35s: end with a save/comment CTA.

7-day validation plan

1. Day 1: research 5 live examples and write 10 hooks before designing anything.
2. Day 2: publish the first simple version on one platform only.
3. Day 3: reply to every useful comment and collect repeated questions.
4. Day 4: remix the strongest point into a second format.
5. Day 5: add one soft CTA to a checklist, link page, newsletter, or template.
6. Day 6: compare saves, shares, replies, and profile clicks.
7. Day 7: repeat only if there is a visible signal from strangers.

Copy prompt to start

Create a 35-second short video about "Women football spotlight" for football fans. Audience: Tournament previews, player profiles, club growth.. Include a sharp hook, a simple structure, one useful example, a soft CTA, and one realistic monetization path. Keep it factual, avoid copyrighted clips, and do not make income promises.

CTA examples

1. Want the checklist I used to make this?
2. Should I turn this into a full template?
3. Comment your club/player and I will make a version for that angle.

FOOTBALL SOCIAL MONEY IDEA

Youth academy tracker

Core idea: Track young players and explain their roles. Best fit: Breakout prospects, loan moves, minutes, style.

AI-CONTENT FIRST X OR THREADS FIRST, THEN EXPAND THE STRONGEST REPLY INTO A CAROUSEL. 7-DAY VALIDATION

Why this can work

This works when the idea is tied to a moment fans already care about, but presented in a cleaner way than the noisy timeline. The goal is not to sound like an expert immediately. The goal is to make one useful point clearly enough that people save it, reply to it, or ask for the next breakdown.

What to avoid

Avoid pretending the result is guaranteed, copying copyrighted match clips, using unauthorized player likenesses as product endorsements, or posting generic AI text without fact-checking and taste.

AI workflow

Generate scouting-card copy from verified notes. Then rewrite the output in your own voice and verify names, dates, stats, and claims before publishing.

Money path

Newsletter, premium watchlist, data affiliates. Keep the first CTA soft: "Want the checklist/template/version I used?"

Example hooks you can adapt

1. The useful angle today: Track young players and explain their roles.
2. Most fans are talking about breakout prospects. Here is the cleaner, more useful breakdown.
3. Before the next match, turn one fan argument into one clear takeaway.
4. If this helps you, I can turn it into a checklist, template, or weekly series.

Example first post

Format: X or Threads mini-thread

1. Post 1: name the youth academy tracker angle clearly.
2. Post 2: give one example and why it matters.
3. Post 3: add one practical takeaway for fans or creators.
4. Post 4: ask what people want broken down next.

7-day validation plan

1. Day 1: research 5 live examples and write 10 hooks before designing anything.
2. Day 2: publish the first simple version on one platform only.
3. Day 3: reply to every useful comment and collect repeated questions.
4. Day 4: remix the strongest point into a second format.
5. Day 5: add one soft CTA to a checklist, link page, newsletter, or template.
6. Day 6: compare saves, shares, replies, and profile clicks.
7. Day 7: repeat only if there is a visible signal from strangers.

Copy prompt to start

Create a X or Threads mini-thread about "Youth academy tracker" for football fans. Audience: Breakout prospects, loan moves, minutes, style.. Include a sharp hook, a simple structure, one useful example, a soft CTA, and one realistic monetization path. Keep it factual, avoid copyrighted clips, and do not make income promises.

CTA examples

1. Want the checklist I used to make this?
2. Should I turn this into a full template?
3. Comment your club/player and I will make a version for that angle.

FOOTBALL SOCIAL MONEY IDEA

Manager decision board

Core idea: Analyze one manager decision per post. Best fit: Lineup changes, pressing style, substitutions, rotations.

AI-CONTENT FIRST NEWSLETTER FIRST, THEN CLIP THE STRONGEST POINT INTO A SHORT POST. 7-DAY VALIDATION

Why this can work

This works when the idea is tied to a moment fans already care about, but presented in a cleaner way than the noisy timeline. The goal is not to sound like an expert immediately. The goal is to make one useful point clearly enough that people save it, reply to it, or ask for the next breakdown.

What to avoid

Avoid pretending the result is guaranteed, copying copyrighted match clips, using unauthorized player likenesses as product endorsements, or posting generic AI text without fact-checking and taste.

AI workflow

Ask AI for pros, cons, and what to watch next. Then rewrite the output in your own voice and verify names, dates, stats, and claims before publishing.

Money path

Paid analysis, sponsorships. Keep the first CTA soft: "Want the checklist/template/version I used?"

Example hooks you can adapt

1. The useful angle today: Analyze one manager decision per post.
2. Most fans are talking about lineup changes. Here is the cleaner, more useful breakdown.
3. Before the next match, turn one fan argument into one clear takeaway.
4. If this helps you, I can turn it into a checklist, template, or weekly series.

Example first post

Format: Newsletter section

1. Subject line: use the simplest debate or question.
2. Opening: say why this matters now.
3. Middle: give three bullets with your judgment.
4. End: link to one useful resource or related post.

7-day validation plan

1. Day 1: research 5 live examples and write 10 hooks before designing anything.
2. Day 2: publish the first simple version on one platform only.
3. Day 3: reply to every useful comment and collect repeated questions.
4. Day 4: remix the strongest point into a second format.
5. Day 5: add one soft CTA to a checklist, link page, newsletter, or template.
6. Day 6: compare saves, shares, replies, and profile clicks.
7. Day 7: repeat only if there is a visible signal from strangers.

Copy prompt to start

Create a Newsletter section about "Manager decision board" for football fans. Audience: Lineup changes, pressing style, substitutions, rotations.. Include a sharp hook, a simple structure, one useful example, a soft CTA, and one realistic monetization path. Keep it factual, avoid copyrighted clips, and do not make income promises.

CTA examples

1. Want the checklist I used to make this?
2. Should I turn this into a full template?
3. Comment your club/player and I will make a version for that angle.

FOOTBALL SOCIAL MONEY IDEA

Football business explainer

Core idea: Explain money behind clubs and tournaments. Best fit: Transfers, wages, sponsorships, TV rights, ownership.

AI-CONTENT FIRST INSTAGRAM CAROUSEL FIRST, THEN REMIX INTO REELS. 7-DAY VALIDATION

Why this can work

This works when the idea is tied to a moment fans already care about, but presented in a cleaner way than the noisy timeline. The goal is not to sound like an expert immediately. The goal is to make one useful point clearly enough that people save it, reply to it, or ask for the next breakdown.

What to avoid

Avoid pretending the result is guaranteed, copying copyrighted match clips, using unauthorized player likenesses as product endorsements, or posting generic AI text without fact-checking and taste.

AI workflow

Use AI to simplify concepts and create visual analogies. Then rewrite the output in your own voice and verify names, dates, stats, and claims before publishing.

Money path

Finance newsletter, course affiliates. Keep the first CTA soft: "Want the checklist/template/version I used?"

Example hooks you can adapt

1. The useful angle today: Explain money behind clubs and tournaments.
2. Most fans are talking about transfers. Here is the cleaner, more useful breakdown.
3. Before the next match, turn one fan argument into one clear takeaway.
4. If this helps you, I can turn it into a checklist, template, or weekly series.

Example first post

Format: 5-slide carousel

1. Slide 1: bold claim about football business explainer.
2. Slide 2: one simple reason the audience already feels.
3. Slide 3: one fact, example, or match moment that supports it.
4. Slide 4: one counterpoint so the post feels honest.
5. Slide 5: question prompt that invites comments.

7-day validation plan

1. Day 1: research 5 live examples and write 10 hooks before designing anything.
2. Day 2: publish the first simple version on one platform only.
3. Day 3: reply to every useful comment and collect repeated questions.
4. Day 4: remix the strongest point into a second format.
5. Day 5: add one soft CTA to a checklist, link page, newsletter, or template.
6. Day 6: compare saves, shares, replies, and profile clicks.
7. Day 7: repeat only if there is a visible signal from strangers.

Copy prompt to start

Create a 5-slide carousel about "Football business explainer" for football fans. Audience: Transfers, wages, sponsorships, TV rights, ownership.. Include a sharp hook, a simple structure, one useful example, a soft CTA, and one realistic monetization path. Keep it factual, avoid copyrighted clips, and do not make income promises.

CTA examples

1. Want the checklist I used to make this?
2. Should I turn this into a full template?
3. Comment your club/player and I will make a version for that angle.

FOOTBALL SOCIAL MONEY IDEA

AI fan quiz account

Core idea: Create quizzes around matches, history, and players. Best fit: Guess the player, lineup memory, club trivia.

AI-CONTENT FIRST SHORTS/REELS FIRST, THEN TURN COMMENTS INTO A SECOND POST. 7-DAY VALIDATION

Why this can work

This works when the idea is tied to a moment fans already care about, but presented in a cleaner way than the noisy timeline. The goal is not to sound like an expert immediately. The goal is to make one useful point clearly enough that people save it, reply to it, or ask for the next breakdown.

What to avoid

Avoid pretending the result is guaranteed, copying copyrighted match clips, using unauthorized player likenesses as product endorsements, or posting generic AI text without fact-checking and taste.

AI workflow

Generate quiz options and explanations. Then rewrite the output in your own voice and verify names, dates, stats, and claims before publishing.

Money path

Lead magnets, ad revenue, quiz packs. Keep the first CTA soft: "Want the checklist/template/version I used?"

Example hooks you can adapt

1. The useful angle today: Create quizzes around matches, history, and players.
2. Most fans are talking about guess the player. Here is the cleaner, more useful breakdown.
3. Before the next match, turn one fan argument into one clear takeaway.
4. If this helps you, I can turn it into a checklist, template, or weekly series.

Example first post

Format: 35-second short video

1. 0-3s: start with the strongest hook.
2. 4-15s: explain the situation in plain language.
3. 16-27s: show the useful takeaway or mistake people miss.
4. 28-35s: end with a save/comment CTA.

7-day validation plan

1. Day 1: research 5 live examples and write 10 hooks before designing anything.
2. Day 2: publish the first simple version on one platform only.
3. Day 3: reply to every useful comment and collect repeated questions.
4. Day 4: remix the strongest point into a second format.
5. Day 5: add one soft CTA to a checklist, link page, newsletter, or template.
6. Day 6: compare saves, shares, replies, and profile clicks.
7. Day 7: repeat only if there is a visible signal from strangers.

Copy prompt to start

Create a 35-second short video about "AI fan quiz account" for football fans. Audience: Guess the player, lineup memory, club trivia.. Include a sharp hook, a simple structure, one useful example, a soft CTA, and one realistic monetization path. Keep it factual, avoid copyrighted clips, and do not make income promises.

CTA examples

1. Want the checklist I used to make this?
2. Should I turn this into a full template?
3. Comment your club/player and I will make a version for that angle.

FOOTBALL SOCIAL MONEY IDEA

Weekly content calendar product

Core idea: Sell simple football content calendars to creators. Best fit: Hooks, dates, match themes, post formats.

AI-CONTENT FIRST X OR THREADS FIRST, THEN EXPAND THE STRONGEST REPLY INTO A CAROUSEL. 7-DAY VALIDATION

Why this can work

This works when the idea is tied to a moment fans already care about, but presented in a cleaner way than the noisy timeline. The goal is not to sound like an expert immediately. The goal is to make one useful point clearly enough that people save it, reply to it, or ask for the next breakdown.

What to avoid

Avoid pretending the result is guaranteed, copying copyrighted match clips, using unauthorized player likenesses as product endorsements, or posting generic AI text without fact-checking and taste.

AI workflow

Use AI to generate a calendar, then curate manually. Then rewrite the output in your own voice and verify names, dates, stats, and claims before publishing.

Money path

Digital product sales and subscriptions. Keep the first CTA soft: "Want the checklist/template/version I used?"

Example hooks you can adapt

1. The useful angle today: Sell simple football content calendars to creators.
2. Most fans are talking about hooks. Here is the cleaner, more useful breakdown.
3. Before the next match, turn one fan argument into one clear takeaway.
4. If this helps you, I can turn it into a checklist, template, or weekly series.

Example first post

Format: X or Threads mini-thread

1. Post 1: name the weekly content calendar product angle clearly.
2. Post 2: give one example and why it matters.
3. Post 3: add one practical takeaway for fans or creators.
4. Post 4: ask what people want broken down next.

7-day validation plan

1. Day 1: research 5 live examples and write 10 hooks before designing anything.
2. Day 2: publish the first simple version on one platform only.
3. Day 3: reply to every useful comment and collect repeated questions.
4. Day 4: remix the strongest point into a second format.
5. Day 5: add one soft CTA to a checklist, link page, newsletter, or template.
6. Day 6: compare saves, shares, replies, and profile clicks.
7. Day 7: repeat only if there is a visible signal from strangers.

Copy prompt to start

Create a X or Threads mini-thread about "Weekly content calendar product" for football fans. Audience: Hooks, dates, match themes, post formats.. Include a sharp hook, a simple structure, one useful example, a soft CTA, and one realistic monetization path. Keep it factual, avoid copyrighted clips, and do not make income promises.

CTA examples

1. Want the checklist I used to make this?
2. Should I turn this into a full template?
3. Comment your club/player and I will make a version for that angle.

FOOTBALL SOCIAL MONEY IDEA

Football betting education only

Core idea: Explain probability and risk without giving gambling promises. Best fit: Odds, variance, bankroll risk, bookmaker margin.

AI-CONTENT FIRST NEWSLETTER FIRST, THEN CLIP THE STRONGEST POINT INTO A SHORT POST. 7-DAY VALIDATION

Why this can work

This works when the idea is tied to a moment fans already care about, but presented in a cleaner way than the noisy timeline. The goal is not to sound like an expert immediately. The goal is to make one useful point clearly enough that people save it, reply to it, or ask for the next breakdown.

What to avoid

Avoid pretending the result is guaranteed, copying copyrighted match clips, using unauthorized player likenesses as product endorsements, or posting generic AI text without fact-checking and taste.

AI workflow

Use AI for educational examples and clear disclaimers. Then rewrite the output in your own voice and verify names, dates, stats, and claims before publishing.

Money path

Safer education content, tools if compliant. Keep the first CTA soft: "Want the checklist/template/version I used?"

Example hooks you can adapt

1. The useful angle today: Explain probability and risk without giving gambling promises.
2. Most fans are talking about odds. Here is the cleaner, more useful breakdown.
3. Before the next match, turn one fan argument into one clear takeaway.
4. If this helps you, I can turn it into a checklist, template, or weekly series.

Example first post

Format: Newsletter section

1. Subject line: use the simplest debate or question.
2. Opening: say why this matters now.
3. Middle: give three bullets with your judgment.
4. End: link to one useful resource or related post.

7-day validation plan

1. Day 1: research 5 live examples and write 10 hooks before designing anything.
2. Day 2: publish the first simple version on one platform only.
3. Day 3: reply to every useful comment and collect repeated questions.
4. Day 4: remix the strongest point into a second format.
5. Day 5: add one soft CTA to a checklist, link page, newsletter, or template.
6. Day 6: compare saves, shares, replies, and profile clicks.
7. Day 7: repeat only if there is a visible signal from strangers.

Copy prompt to start

Create a Newsletter section about "Football betting education only" for football fans. Audience: Odds, variance, bankroll risk, bookmaker margin.. Include a sharp hook, a simple structure, one useful example, a soft CTA, and one realistic monetization path. Keep it factual, avoid copyrighted clips, and do not make income promises.

CTA examples

1. Want the checklist I used to make this?
2. Should I turn this into a full template?
3. Comment your club/player and I will make a version for that angle.

FOOTBALL SOCIAL MONEY IDEA

Post-match quote breakdown

Core idea: Explain what managers and players actually implied. Best fit: Press conferences, interviews, tactical comments.

AI-CONTENT FIRST INSTAGRAM CAROUSEL FIRST, THEN REMIX INTO REELS. 7-DAY VALIDATION

Why this can work

This works when the idea is tied to a moment fans already care about, but presented in a cleaner way than the noisy timeline. The goal is not to sound like an expert immediately. The goal is to make one useful point clearly enough that people save it, reply to it, or ask for the next breakdown.

What to avoid

Avoid pretending the result is guaranteed, copying copyrighted match clips, using unauthorized player likenesses as product endorsements, or posting generic AI text without fact-checking and taste.

AI workflow

Use AI to extract themes and write neutral summaries. Then rewrite the output in your own voice and verify names, dates, stats, and claims before publishing.

Money path

Newsletter, sponsorships. Keep the first CTA soft: "Want the checklist/template/version I used?"

Example hooks you can adapt

1. The useful angle today: Explain what managers and players actually implied.
2. Most fans are talking about press conferences. Here is the cleaner, more useful breakdown.
3. Before the next match, turn one fan argument into one clear takeaway.
4. If this helps you, I can turn it into a checklist, template, or weekly series.

Example first post

Format: 5-slide carousel

1. Slide 1: bold claim about post-match quote breakdown.
2. Slide 2: one simple reason the audience already feels.
3. Slide 3: one fact, example, or match moment that supports it.
4. Slide 4: one counterpoint so the post feels honest.
5. Slide 5: question prompt that invites comments.

7-day validation plan

1. Day 1: research 5 live examples and write 10 hooks before designing anything.
2. Day 2: publish the first simple version on one platform only.
3. Day 3: reply to every useful comment and collect repeated questions.
4. Day 4: remix the strongest point into a second format.
5. Day 5: add one soft CTA to a checklist, link page, newsletter, or template.
6. Day 6: compare saves, shares, replies, and profile clicks.
7. Day 7: repeat only if there is a visible signal from strangers.

Copy prompt to start

Create a 5-slide carousel about "Post-match quote breakdown" for football fans. Audience: Press conferences, interviews, tactical comments.. Include a sharp hook, a simple structure, one useful example, a soft CTA, and one realistic monetization path. Keep it factual, avoid copyrighted clips, and do not make income promises.

CTA examples

1. Want the checklist I used to make this?
2. Should I turn this into a full template?
3. Comment your club/player and I will make a version for that angle.

FOOTBALL SOCIAL MONEY IDEA

Football creator audit service

Core idea: Audit football pages for hooks, thumbnails, bios, and consistency. Best fit: Accounts posting often but not converting.

AI-CONTENT FIRST SHORTS/REELS FIRST, THEN TURN COMMENTS INTO A SECOND POST. 7-DAY VALIDATION

Why this can work

This works when the idea is tied to a moment fans already care about, but presented in a cleaner way than the noisy timeline. The goal is not to sound like an expert immediately. The goal is to make one useful point clearly enough that people save it, reply to it, or ask for the next breakdown.

What to avoid

Avoid pretending the result is guaranteed, copying copyrighted match clips, using unauthorized player likenesses as product endorsements, or posting generic AI text without fact-checking and taste.

AI workflow

Use AI to create an audit checklist and sample report. Then rewrite the output in your own voice and verify names, dates, stats, and claims before publishing.

Money path

Service revenue, upsells to templates. Keep the first CTA soft: "Want the checklist/template/version I used?"

Example hooks you can adapt

1. The useful angle today: Audit football pages for hooks, thumbnails, bios, and consistency.
2. Most fans are talking about accounts posting often but not converting.. Here is the cleaner, more useful breakdown.
3. Before the next match, turn one fan argument into one clear takeaway.
4. If this helps you, I can turn it into a checklist, template, or weekly series.

Example first post

Format: 35-second short video

1. 0-3s: start with the strongest hook.
2. 4-15s: explain the situation in plain language.
3. 16-27s: show the useful takeaway or mistake people miss.
4. 28-35s: end with a save/comment CTA.

7-day validation plan

1. Day 1: research 5 live examples and write 10 hooks before designing anything.
2. Day 2: publish the first simple version on one platform only.
3. Day 3: reply to every useful comment and collect repeated questions.
4. Day 4: remix the strongest point into a second format.
5. Day 5: add one soft CTA to a checklist, link page, newsletter, or template.
6. Day 6: compare saves, shares, replies, and profile clicks.
7. Day 7: repeat only if there is a visible signal from strangers.

Copy prompt to start

Create a 35-second short video about "Football creator audit service" for football fans. Audience: Accounts posting often but not converting.. Include a sharp hook, a simple structure, one useful example, a soft CTA, and one realistic monetization path. Keep it factual, avoid copyrighted clips, and do not make income promises.

CTA examples

1. Want the checklist I used to make this?
2. Should I turn this into a full template?
3. Comment your club/player and I will make a version for that angle.

FOOTBALL SOCIAL MONEY IDEA

Niche fan community starter

Core idea: Build around one club, league, or player type. Best fit: Underrated leagues, tactical fans, fantasy players.

AI-CONTENT FIRST X OR THREADS FIRST, THEN EXPAND THE STRONGEST REPLY INTO A CAROUSEL. 7-DAY VALIDATION

Why this can work

This works when the idea is tied to a moment fans already care about, but presented in a cleaner way than the noisy timeline. The goal is not to sound like an expert immediately. The goal is to make one useful point clearly enough that people save it, reply to it, or ask for the next breakdown.

What to avoid

Avoid pretending the result is guaranteed, copying copyrighted match clips, using unauthorized player likenesses as product endorsements, or posting generic AI text without fact-checking and taste.

AI workflow

Use AI to create onboarding posts and weekly rituals. Then rewrite the output in your own voice and verify names, dates, stats, and claims before publishing.

Money path

Paid community, sponsorships. Keep the first CTA soft: "Want the checklist/template/version I used?"

Example hooks you can adapt

1. The useful angle today: Build around one club, league, or player type.
2. Most fans are talking about underrated leagues. Here is the cleaner, more useful breakdown.
3. Before the next match, turn one fan argument into one clear takeaway.
4. If this helps you, I can turn it into a checklist, template, or weekly series.

Example first post

Format: X or Threads mini-thread

1. Post 1: name the niche fan community starter angle clearly.
2. Post 2: give one example and why it matters.
3. Post 3: add one practical takeaway for fans or creators.
4. Post 4: ask what people want broken down next.

7-day validation plan

1. Day 1: research 5 live examples and write 10 hooks before designing anything.
2. Day 2: publish the first simple version on one platform only.
3. Day 3: reply to every useful comment and collect repeated questions.
4. Day 4: remix the strongest point into a second format.
5. Day 5: add one soft CTA to a checklist, link page, newsletter, or template.
6. Day 6: compare saves, shares, replies, and profile clicks.
7. Day 7: repeat only if there is a visible signal from strangers.

Copy prompt to start

Create a X or Threads mini-thread about "Niche fan community starter" for football fans. Audience: Underrated leagues, tactical fans, fantasy players.. Include a sharp hook, a simple structure, one useful example, a soft CTA, and one realistic monetization path. Keep it factual, avoid copyrighted clips, and do not make income promises.

CTA examples

1. Want the checklist I used to make this?
2. Should I turn this into a full template?
3. Comment your club/player and I will make a version for that angle.

FOOTBALL SOCIAL MONEY IDEA

AI reel script packs

Core idea: Sell batches of short reel scripts to busy creators. Best fit: Match previews, player stories, debate hooks.

AI-CONTENT FIRST NEWSLETTER FIRST, THEN CLIP THE STRONGEST POINT INTO A SHORT POST. 7-DAY VALIDATION

Why this can work

This works when the idea is tied to a moment fans already care about, but presented in a cleaner way than the noisy timeline. The goal is not to sound like an expert immediately. The goal is to make one useful point clearly enough that people save it, reply to it, or ask for the next breakdown.

What to avoid

Avoid pretending the result is guaranteed, copying copyrighted match clips, using unauthorized player likenesses as product endorsements, or posting generic AI text without fact-checking and taste.

AI workflow

Generate drafts, then edit for voice and accuracy. Then rewrite the output in your own voice and verify names, dates, stats, and claims before publishing.

Money path

Script packs, retainers. Keep the first CTA soft: "Want the checklist/template/version I used?"

Example hooks you can adapt

1. The useful angle today: Sell batches of short reel scripts to busy creators.
2. Most fans are talking about match previews. Here is the cleaner, more useful breakdown.
3. Before the next match, turn one fan argument into one clear takeaway.
4. If this helps you, I can turn it into a checklist, template, or weekly series.

Example first post

Format: Newsletter section

1. Subject line: use the simplest debate or question.
2. Opening: say why this matters now.
3. Middle: give three bullets with your judgment.
4. End: link to one useful resource or related post.

7-day validation plan

1. Day 1: research 5 live examples and write 10 hooks before designing anything.
2. Day 2: publish the first simple version on one platform only.
3. Day 3: reply to every useful comment and collect repeated questions.
4. Day 4: remix the strongest point into a second format.
5. Day 5: add one soft CTA to a checklist, link page, newsletter, or template.
6. Day 6: compare saves, shares, replies, and profile clicks.
7. Day 7: repeat only if there is a visible signal from strangers.

Copy prompt to start

Create a Newsletter section about "AI reel script packs" for football fans. Audience: Match previews, player stories, debate hooks.. Include a sharp hook, a simple structure, one useful example, a soft CTA, and one realistic monetization path. Keep it factual, avoid copyrighted clips, and do not make income promises.

CTA examples

1. Want the checklist I used to make this?
2. Should I turn this into a full template?
3. Comment your club/player and I will make a version for that angle.

FOOTBALL SOCIAL MONEY IDEA

Football explain-it-like-I-am-new

Core idea: Make the sport easier for new fans. Best fit: Rules, formations, competitions, transfer windows.

AI-CONTENT FIRST INSTAGRAM CAROUSEL FIRST, THEN REMIX INTO REELS. 7-DAY VALIDATION

Why this can work

This works when the idea is tied to a moment fans already care about, but presented in a cleaner way than the noisy timeline. The goal is not to sound like an expert immediately. The goal is to make one useful point clearly enough that people save it, reply to it, or ask for the next breakdown.

What to avoid

Avoid pretending the result is guaranteed, copying copyrighted match clips, using unauthorized player likenesses as product endorsements, or posting generic AI text without fact-checking and taste.

AI workflow

Ask AI to rewrite complex ideas for a beginner. Then rewrite the output in your own voice and verify names, dates, stats, and claims before publishing.

Money path

Beginner guides, YouTube, affiliates. Keep the first CTA soft: "Want the checklist/template/version I used?"

Example hooks you can adapt

1. The useful angle today: Make the sport easier for new fans.
2. Most fans are talking about rules. Here is the cleaner, more useful breakdown.
3. Before the next match, turn one fan argument into one clear takeaway.
4. If this helps you, I can turn it into a checklist, template, or weekly series.

Example first post

Format: 5-slide carousel

1. Slide 1: bold claim about football explain-it-like-i-am-new.
2. Slide 2: one simple reason the audience already feels.
3. Slide 3: one fact, example, or match moment that supports it.
4. Slide 4: one counterpoint so the post feels honest.
5. Slide 5: question prompt that invites comments.

7-day validation plan

1. Day 1: research 5 live examples and write 10 hooks before designing anything.
2. Day 2: publish the first simple version on one platform only.
3. Day 3: reply to every useful comment and collect repeated questions.
4. Day 4: remix the strongest point into a second format.
5. Day 5: add one soft CTA to a checklist, link page, newsletter, or template.
6. Day 6: compare saves, shares, replies, and profile clicks.
7. Day 7: repeat only if there is a visible signal from strangers.

Copy prompt to start

Create a 5-slide carousel about "Football explain-it-like-I-am-new" for football fans. Audience: Rules, formations, competitions, transfer windows.. Include a sharp hook, a simple structure, one useful example, a soft CTA, and one realistic monetization path. Keep it factual, avoid copyrighted clips, and do not make income promises.

CTA examples

1. Want the checklist I used to make this?
2. Should I turn this into a full template?
3. Comment your club/player and I will make a version for that angle.

FOOTBALL SOCIAL MONEY IDEA

Creator affiliate hub

Core idea: Curate tools football creators actually use. Best fit: Editing apps, design tools, microphones, scheduling tools.

AI-CONTENT FIRST SHORTS/REELS FIRST, THEN TURN COMMENTS INTO A SECOND POST. 7-DAY VALIDATION

Why this can work

This works when the idea is tied to a moment fans already care about, but presented in a cleaner way than the noisy timeline. The goal is not to sound like an expert immediately. The goal is to make one useful point clearly enough that people save it, reply to it, or ask for the next breakdown.

What to avoid

Avoid pretending the result is guaranteed, copying copyrighted match clips, using unauthorized player likenesses as product endorsements, or posting generic AI text without fact-checking and taste.

AI workflow

Use AI to compare tools and write honest summaries. Then rewrite the output in your own voice and verify names, dates, stats, and claims before publishing.

Money path

Recurring affiliate income. Keep the first CTA soft: "Want the checklist/template/version I used?"

Example hooks you can adapt

1. The useful angle today: Curate tools football creators actually use.
2. Most fans are talking about editing apps. Here is the cleaner, more useful breakdown.
3. Before the next match, turn one fan argument into one clear takeaway.
4. If this helps you, I can turn it into a checklist, template, or weekly series.

Example first post

Format: 35-second short video

1. 0-3s: start with the strongest hook.
2. 4-15s: explain the situation in plain language.
3. 16-27s: show the useful takeaway or mistake people miss.
4. 28-35s: end with a save/comment CTA.

7-day validation plan

1. Day 1: research 5 live examples and write 10 hooks before designing anything.
2. Day 2: publish the first simple version on one platform only.
3. Day 3: reply to every useful comment and collect repeated questions.
4. Day 4: remix the strongest point into a second format.
5. Day 5: add one soft CTA to a checklist, link page, newsletter, or template.
6. Day 6: compare saves, shares, replies, and profile clicks.
7. Day 7: repeat only if there is a visible signal from strangers.

Copy prompt to start

Create a 35-second short video about "Creator affiliate hub" for football fans. Audience: Editing apps, design tools, microphones, scheduling tools.. Include a sharp hook, a simple structure, one useful example, a soft CTA, and one realistic monetization path. Keep it factual, avoid copyrighted clips, and do not make income promises.

CTA examples

1. Want the checklist I used to make this?
2. Should I turn this into a full template?
3. Comment your club/player and I will make a version for that angle.

FOOTBALL SOCIAL MONEY IDEA

Football data template shop

Core idea: Create spreadsheet templates for fans and creators. Best fit: Fixture tracker, content tracker, fantasy tracker.

AI-CONTENT FIRST X OR THREADS FIRST, THEN EXPAND THE STRONGEST REPLY INTO A CAROUSEL. 7-DAY VALIDATION

Why this can work

This works when the idea is tied to a moment fans already care about, but presented in a cleaner way than the noisy timeline. The goal is not to sound like an expert immediately. The goal is to make one useful point clearly enough that people save it, reply to it, or ask for the next breakdown.

What to avoid

Avoid pretending the result is guaranteed, copying copyrighted match clips, using unauthorized player likenesses as product endorsements, or posting generic AI text without fact-checking and taste.

AI workflow

Ask AI for columns, formulas, and dashboard sections. Then rewrite the output in your own voice and verify names, dates, stats, and claims before publishing.

Money path

Template sales. Keep the first CTA soft: "Want the checklist/template/version I used?"

Example hooks you can adapt

1. The useful angle today: Create spreadsheet templates for fans and creators.
2. Most fans are talking about fixture tracker. Here is the cleaner, more useful breakdown.
3. Before the next match, turn one fan argument into one clear takeaway.
4. If this helps you, I can turn it into a checklist, template, or weekly series.

Example first post

Format: X or Threads mini-thread

1. Post 1: name the football data template shop angle clearly.
2. Post 2: give one example and why it matters.
3. Post 3: add one practical takeaway for fans or creators.
4. Post 4: ask what people want broken down next.

7-day validation plan

1. Day 1: research 5 live examples and write 10 hooks before designing anything.
2. Day 2: publish the first simple version on one platform only.
3. Day 3: reply to every useful comment and collect repeated questions.
4. Day 4: remix the strongest point into a second format.
5. Day 5: add one soft CTA to a checklist, link page, newsletter, or template.
6. Day 6: compare saves, shares, replies, and profile clicks.
7. Day 7: repeat only if there is a visible signal from strangers.

Copy prompt to start

Create a X or Threads mini-thread about "Football data template shop" for football fans. Audience: Fixture tracker, content tracker, fantasy tracker. Include a sharp hook, a simple structure, one useful example, a soft CTA, and one realistic monetization path. Keep it factual, avoid copyrighted clips, and do not make income promises.

CTA examples

1. Want the checklist I used to make this?
2. Should I turn this into a full template?
3. Comment your club/player and I will make a version for that angle.

FOOTBALL SOCIAL MONEY IDEA

AI thumbnail testing board

Core idea: Create thumbnail/caption variants for football videos. Best fit: Derby previews, reaction videos, explainers.

AI-CONTENT FIRST NEWSLETTER FIRST, THEN CLIP THE STRONGEST POINT INTO A SHORT POST. 7-DAY VALIDATION

Why this can work

This works when the idea is tied to a moment fans already care about, but presented in a cleaner way than the noisy timeline. The goal is not to sound like an expert immediately. The goal is to make one useful point clearly enough that people save it, reply to it, or ask for the next breakdown.

What to avoid

Avoid pretending the result is guaranteed, copying copyrighted match clips, using unauthorized player likenesses as product endorsements, or posting generic AI text without fact-checking and taste.

AI workflow

Generate 10 variants, test small, keep winners. Then rewrite the output in your own voice and verify names, dates, stats, and claims before publishing.

Money path

Service offers and template packs. Keep the first CTA soft: "Want the checklist/template/version I used?"

Example hooks you can adapt

1. The useful angle today: Create thumbnail/caption variants for football videos.
2. Most fans are talking about derby previews. Here is the cleaner, more useful breakdown.
3. Before the next match, turn one fan argument into one clear takeaway.
4. If this helps you, I can turn it into a checklist, template, or weekly series.

Example first post

Format: Newsletter section

1. Subject line: use the simplest debate or question.
2. Opening: say why this matters now.
3. Middle: give three bullets with your judgment.
4. End: link to one useful resource or related post.

7-day validation plan

1. Day 1: research 5 live examples and write 10 hooks before designing anything.
2. Day 2: publish the first simple version on one platform only.
3. Day 3: reply to every useful comment and collect repeated questions.
4. Day 4: remix the strongest point into a second format.
5. Day 5: add one soft CTA to a checklist, link page, newsletter, or template.
6. Day 6: compare saves, shares, replies, and profile clicks.
7. Day 7: repeat only if there is a visible signal from strangers.

Copy prompt to start

Create a Newsletter section about "AI thumbnail testing board" for football fans. Audience: Derby previews, reaction videos, explainers.. Include a sharp hook, a simple structure, one useful example, a soft CTA, and one realistic monetization path. Keep it factual, avoid copyrighted clips, and do not make income promises.

CTA examples

1. Want the checklist I used to make this?
2. Should I turn this into a full template?
3. Comment your club/player and I will make a version for that angle.

AI WORKFLOW RECIPE

Script to short video

Use this when: Use this when you want repeatable reels without relying on copyrighted footage.

REPEATABLE PROCESS HUMAN JUDGMENT REQUIRED SAFE PUBLISHING

Workflow steps

1. Topic
2. hook
3. 35-second script
4. voiceover
5. soft visual scene
6. caption
7. post.

What the output should include

1. One finished post or asset, not ten unfinished drafts.
2. One caption with a soft CTA.
3. One quality checklist before publishing.
4. One note on what to track after posting.

Copy prompt to start

Build a script to short video workflow for a football creator. Use this flow: Topic -> hook -> 35-second script -> voiceover -> soft visual scene -> caption -> post.. Give me the input fields, the exact output format, a publishing checklist, a quality check, and one safe monetization path.

Quality checks

1. Check names, dates, stats, and context before publishing.
2. Avoid copyrighted clips, fake screenshots, and player endorsement claims.
3. Keep the creator's point of view in the final edit.
4. Publish one version first, then improve after real audience signal.

Example use case

Pick one live football topic, run it through this workflow, and publish the smallest useful version. For example: a match preview, a player debate, a watch-party checklist, a fan poll, or a short tactical explanation.

Monetization bridge

After a post gets signal, route people to a simple next step: a checklist, template, newsletter, link page, prompt pack, or service offer. Keep it optional and useful.

Do not automate too early

Do the first few runs manually. Automation comes after the format proves people care. Otherwise the workflow only helps you create more ignored content faster.

AI WORKFLOW RECIPE

Carousel workflow

Use this when: Use this for debate posts, stat explainers, and beginner education.

REPEATABLE PROCESS HUMAN JUDGMENT REQUIRED SAFE PUBLISHING

Workflow steps

1. Claim
2. slide titles
3. supporting points
4. counterpoint
5. final question
6. caption.

Copy prompt to start

Build a carousel workflow workflow for a football creator. Use this flow: Claim -> slide titles -> supporting points -> counterpoint -> final question -> caption.. Give me the input fields, the exact output format, a publishing checklist, a quality check, and one safe monetization path.

What the output should include

1. One finished post or asset, not ten unfinished drafts.
2. One caption with a soft CTA.
3. One quality checklist before publishing.
4. One note on what to track after posting.

Quality checks

1. Check names, dates, stats, and context before publishing.
2. Avoid copyrighted clips, fake screenshots, and player endorsement claims.
3. Keep the creator's point of view in the final edit.
4. Publish one version first, then improve after real audience signal.

Example use case

Pick one live football topic, run it through this workflow, and publish the smallest useful version. For example: a match preview, a player debate, a watch-party checklist, a fan poll, or a short tactical explanation.

Monetization bridge

After a post gets signal, route people to a simple next step: a checklist, template, newsletter, link page, prompt pack, or service offer. Keep it optional and useful.

Do not automate too early

Do the first few runs manually. Automation comes after the format proves people care. Otherwise the workflow only helps you create more ignored content faster.

AI WORKFLOW RECIPE

Newsletter workflow

Use this when: Use this when you want an owned audience instead of only platform reach.

REPEATABLE PROCESS HUMAN JUDGMENT REQUIRED SAFE PUBLISHING

Workflow steps

1. Trend scan
2. 3 bullets
3. 1 deeper insight
4. useful link
5. next issue teaser.

What the output should include

1. One finished post or asset, not ten unfinished drafts.
2. One caption with a soft CTA.
3. One quality checklist before publishing.
4. One note on what to track after posting.

Copy prompt to start

Build a newsletter workflow workflow for a football creator. Use this flow: Trend scan -> 3 bullets -> 1 deeper insight -> useful link -> next issue teaser.. Give me the input fields, the exact output format, a publishing checklist, a quality check, and one safe monetization path.

Quality checks

1. Check names, dates, stats, and context before publishing.
2. Avoid copyrighted clips, fake screenshots, and player endorsement claims.
3. Keep the creator's point of view in the final edit.
4. Publish one version first, then improve after real audience signal.

Example use case

Pick one live football topic, run it through this workflow, and publish the smallest useful version. For example: a match preview, a player debate, a watch-party checklist, a fan poll, or a short tactical explanation.

Monetization bridge

After a post gets signal, route people to a simple next step: a checklist, template, newsletter, link page, prompt pack, or service offer. Keep it optional and useful.

Do not automate too early

Do the first few runs manually. Automation comes after the format proves people care. Otherwise the workflow only helps you create more ignored content faster.

AI WORKFLOW RECIPE

Affiliate workflow

Use this when: Use this for watch-party gear, creator tools, training products, and digital templates.

REPEATABLE PROCESS HUMAN JUDGMENT REQUIRED SAFE PUBLISHING

Workflow steps

1. Fan problem
2. useful product
3. honest note
4. link page
5. follow-up post.

What the output should include

1. One finished post or asset, not ten unfinished drafts.
2. One caption with a soft CTA.
3. One quality checklist before publishing.
4. One note on what to track after posting.

Copy prompt to start

Build a affiliate workflow workflow for a football creator. Use this flow: Fan problem -> useful product -> honest note -> link page -> follow-up post.. Give me the input fields, the exact output format, a publishing checklist, a quality check, and one safe monetization path.

Quality checks

1. Check names, dates, stats, and context before publishing.
2. Avoid copyrighted clips, fake screenshots, and player endorsement claims.
3. Keep the creator's point of view in the final edit.
4. Publish one version first, then improve after real audience signal.

Example use case

Pick one live football topic, run it through this workflow, and publish the smallest useful version. For example: a match preview, a player debate, a watch-party checklist, a fan poll, or a short tactical explanation.

Monetization bridge

After a post gets signal, route people to a simple next step: a checklist, template, newsletter, link page, prompt pack, or service offer. Keep it optional and useful.

Do not automate too early

Do the first few runs manually. Automation comes after the format proves people care. Otherwise the workflow only helps you create more ignored content faster.

AI WORKFLOW RECIPE

Digital product workflow

Use this when: Use this when your audience keeps asking for the same checklist or prompt pack.

REPEATABLE PROCESS HUMAN JUDGMENT REQUIRED SAFE PUBLISHING

Workflow steps

1. Repeated question
2. template
3. example output
4. simple landing page
5. $1 to $9 offer.

What the output should include

1. One finished post or asset, not ten unfinished drafts.
2. One caption with a soft CTA.
3. One quality checklist before publishing.
4. One note on what to track after posting.

Copy prompt to start

Build a digital product workflow workflow for a football creator. Use this flow: Repeated question -> template -> example output -> simple landing page -> $1 to $9 offer.. Give me the input fields, the exact output format, a publishing checklist, a quality check, and one safe monetization path.

Quality checks

1. Check names, dates, stats, and context before publishing.
2. Avoid copyrighted clips, fake screenshots, and player endorsement claims.
3. Keep the creator's point of view in the final edit.
4. Publish one version first, then improve after real audience signal.

Example use case

Pick one live football topic, run it through this workflow, and publish the smallest useful version. For example: a match preview, a player debate, a watch-party checklist, a fan poll, or a short tactical explanation.

Monetization bridge

After a post gets signal, route people to a simple next step: a checklist, template, newsletter, link page, prompt pack, or service offer. Keep it optional and useful.

Do not automate too early

Do the first few runs manually. Automation comes after the format proves people care. Otherwise the workflow only helps you create more ignored content faster.

7-DAY SPRINT AND RULES

Run this before overbuilding.

Use the pack like a test system. Pick one playbook, publish a small version, watch the signal, then decide whether to repeat, refine, or stop.

Days 1 to 3

1. Choose one playbook.
2. Write 10 hooks.
3. Publish 3 posts in one format.
4. Track saves, comments, shares, and profile clicks.

Days 4 to 7

1. Remix the best post into a second format.
2. Create one useful link destination.
3. Test one CTA.
4. Write down what strangers actually responded to.

Repeat if

1. People save the post.
2. People ask for examples or templates.
3. The same question appears more than once.
4. Profile clicks or email signups increase.

Stop if

1. The topic only gets empty likes.
2. You cannot explain the value clearly.
3. It needs copyrighted material to work.
4. You are forcing the monetization path.

Good next offers

1. Affiliate links to genuinely useful tools or products.
2. Small digital products like prompt packs, calendars, templates, and guides.
3. Services for creators or fan pages after showing proof.
4. Newsletters and community offers once trust exists.

Avoid

1. Fake income screenshots.
2. Unauthorized player images or copyrighted match clips.
3. Pretending players endorse your product.
4. Selling generic AI slop with no taste or verification.

Simple tracking table

1. Post title.
2. Format.
3. Saves.
4. Shares.
5. Replies.
6. Profile clicks.
7. Next action.

A good idea is specific enough to post today, useful enough to save, and honest enough to build trust. Goldmine is a testing map, not a guarantee.